

MAYSVILLE, KENTUCKY, SATURDAY, JUNE 27, 1914.

ONE COPY—ONE CENT.

Well.

He wore a collar hard as steel,
His shoes were tight from toe to heel,
His head was broiled in a hot hat,
His snouts would pinch him when he sat,
His strangling vest he dared not fight
His coat was padded and too tight,
A hard-boiled shirt deceased his chest—
And yet he smiled, he was well dressed.

THEATER GOSSIP.

Miss Anna Bell Ward, Maysville's charming vocalist, who has been taking voice lessons at the College of Music, Cincinnati, has discontinued her studies in the Queen City (Ill.) September on account of the absence of Prof. Mattioli, instructor in the vocal department. Miss Ward will continue to give the favor of her ability as a singer to the Maysville public and can be heard every week at the Pastime. The "Ward Kids" will sing at that theater this afternoon and night.

LET UNCLE SAM GIVE YOU THE FACTS

Government reports show the steady output of coal during the last few years has made the dealers push for wider markets. We are going to get more trade—your trade—by giving you a greater value for your money. You will never get out of debt unless you buy wisely.

MAYSVILLE COAL CO.

PHONE 145.

Another loose leaf tobacco warehouse is being erected at Mt. Sterling. It is owned by Kirkpatrick & Gay.

BUILD YOUR HOUSE NOW!

If you are contemplating building a home or a house for an investment, now is the time to place your order. We have the largest stock of all kinds of building material that can be found in Northeastern Kentucky and have large contracts with the timber men for still greater supply. We contracted this large supply at a price very near cost of production and we are in position to give you the advantage of this good purchase. Place your order now or let us give you an estimate on your requirements; you will then leave your order with Maysville's Foremost Lumber Yard.

The Mason Lumber Co., Inc.
Cor. Second and Limestone Sts. Phone 519. MAYSVILLE, KY.
A. A. McLAUGHLIN. L. N. BRYAN.

Summer Prices on Columbia BICYCLES Pope Makes

Motorbike Clincher Tires, $15 grade, $40. Pope Bicycle, $40 grade, $20. Pope Corsair, $25 grade, $20. Goodyear auto skid tire, the best we've ever sold for $4. Bargains in Clincher tire casings $1 each.

J. T. KACKLEY & CO.

Mr. Frank Eitel of this city purchased an Overland auto from the Brown Auto company yesterday.

OLD STEAMBOATMAN DEAD.

Captain Harvey Redden died at Portsmouth, Ohio, Monday, aged 63 years. He was on the ferryboat at Portsmouth until a short time ago, and at one time owned the Augusta ferry. He and Capt. George W. Edgington, of Augusta, owned the first steamer, Handy, that ran in the Maysville and Portsmouth trade.

Orchestra concert Sunday afternoon and evening at Beechwood Park.

TAHAN NOT ON CHAUTAUQUA PROGRAM

Many people have the impression that Tahan, the Indian who has been heard in this city before, is to appear on this year's Chautauqua program. This is a mistake. Dr. Ernst Wray O'Neil, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Chicago will take the place of Tahan. He will lecture Friday p. m. on "Popular Palaces."

WALL PAPER!

Now is the time to do your wall papering and painting. Come in. We can show you just what you need. We have a full line of Wall Papers, Paints, Enamels, Etc. See our line before buying.

CRANE & SHAFER,

PHONE 452. COX BUILDING.

We Are the Agents for the Best
Hay Rake
Mower and Binder

on the market today, and want you to investigate them, Farmers, before you buy. Phone us and we will tell you the name of one of your neighbors who is a satisfied owner and you can then talk to him. We realize you are going to be very busy for the next few weeks, but you needn't come in, just call 162 and let us know your wants and we are "right here with the goods," to make use of a slang expression.

Yours for a big harvest.

MIKE BROWN,

—THE—
SQUARE DEAL MAN.

POLICE COURT.

The docket in the City Police Court yesterday was as follows:

Phil Harbeson, drunkenness, $6.50.
John Jones, drunkenness, $6.50.
Will Short, drunkenness, $6.50.
James Wall, drunkenness, $6.50.
Short and Wall paid their fines.

FUNERAL OF BEN F. THOMAS

This Morning at Church of the Nativity Many Friends and Relatives Called Here.

The funeral of Mr. Ben F. Thomas, a native of Maysville, who died at Atlantic City, Thursday, will be held this morning at the Church of the Nativity. The services are to be conducted by Rev. J. H. Fielding, rector of the church. Interment will take place in the Thomas lot in the Maysville Cemetery.

Relatives and friends of the deceased to arrive here from a distance are: Mr. George T. Hunter, Jr., of Chattanooga, nephew of the deceased; Mrs. Ben F. Thomas, of Chattanooga; and Mrs. Elizabeth Skinner, of Cincinnati, a sister; all arrived yesterday afternoon from Atlantic City. Mr. Walter St. John Jones, of Cincinnati, a friend, also arrived yesterday afternoon. Mr. George T. Hunter, of Huntington, W. Va., brother-in-law, and Mr. Stephen Hunter, of Holden, W. Va., will arrive this morning. Also Messrs. Robert Cook, E. Y. Chapin, C. O. Lashley, Loss Wiley and Captain Lyerly, all of Maysville, friends and business associates of Mr. Thomas, are expected to arrive.

Cap. Robert Wilson of Fleming County was a business visitor in this city yesterday and while here purchased an Overland auto from the Brown Auto Co.

RACING TO BEGIN IN NEW ORLEANS

Racing will be revived in New Orleans on Thanksgiving Day under the auspices of the Business Men's Racing Association, a $250,000 corporation recently organized in that city.

LOST OUT IN NINTH.

Lexington, Ky., June 26.—Fighting bravely to the last, the Colts returned home yesterday afternoon and used Maysville out in a desperate battle 3 to 2, after a duel between Green and Sanford, with the former having the better support and the better control. Maysville got away to an early lead in the second inning when they did all their scoring, but after that Green turned them back at every move. Lexington kept hammering at Sanford, getting him on bases in nearly every inning, but they were unable to connect hard with his fast curves, and had not been exceedingly wild, the locals would have tasted defeat at the hands of the Cubs.

Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9—
Maysville 0 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—2
Lexington 1 0 0 0 1 0 0 1 1—3
Two base hit—Emery. Home run—Ellis. First on balls—O'Green, 2; Sanford, 6; Struck out—By Green, 2; Sanford, 5. Left on bases—Lexington, 11; Maysville, 7. Sacrifice hits—Nettel, Curtis, Dietrich, Culin, 2; Dawson, 2; Konanek. Double plays—Dawson to Culin. Time—1:45. Umpire—Jacob.

MACK'S HISTORY ADOPTED.

Frankfort, Ky., June 26.—The Text Book Commission today adopted Prof. A. S. Mackenzie's "History of English Literature for High Schools."

THE JAPS BAITING UNCLE SAM.

Washington, June 26.—Japan again is demanding a re-embodiment and uncompromising relief for her subjects from what are called "invidious discriminatory" effects of the California alien land ownership law.

A FIGHT TO A FINISH

Ink Spreaders and All Stars of the Junior Amateur League To Cross Bats This Afternoon at League Park

The fateful day has arrived and the Printers will endeavor to show the Juniors the fine points of the Great National Game.

Both sides are equally confident of victory and the contest should be of interest to everyone.

The proceeds of the game will be donated to the Maysville Baseball Club and it is your duty to come out and help the good cause along.

Pitcher Golt of the Maysville League team will handle the indicator, which means that everything will be done in a fair and square manner.

The admission will be 15c to everyone.

The line-up of both teams follows:

Juniors.
Rice, O'Keefe or Hampton—pitcher.
Kennor or Robb—catcher.
McNamara or Peggy Ennis—first base.
Clark or Yarnall—second base.
Marsh or Donovan—third base.
Greene or Barbour—short stop.
Twins or Curry—left field.
Tolls or J. Ennis—center field.
Willott or Parker—right field.

Printers.
McCarthy—first base.
Cape—second base.
Dora—pitcher.
Nash—short stop.
Galt—catcher.

Lace and Net BLOUSES
Greatly Reduced

$2.50 Blouses $1.89. Cream shadow lace lined with net. Neck and sleeves finished with pleated net stitched with black silk. Front fastened with silk loops and fancy buttons.

$1.00 Blouses $2.98. Embroidered cream net trimmed in shadow lace bands and not frills stitched with black.

$4.50 Blouses $3.39. Cream shadow lace lined with net. Vestee, collar, cuffs, and buttons of colored taffeta in Malice, pink, blue or lavender.

White chiffon over pink silk. Arm hole with taffeta band. Vest of shadow lace and embroidered chiffon trimmed with handsome buttons and two tailored bows of black velvet.

$1.00 Blouses 50.

$1.25 and $1.50 Blouses 75c. White wash waists of Suisse, Madras, Voile, India Linon, Flaxon and French Lawn in all white and white trimmed with color. Some are tailored, others embroidered and many lace trimmed blouses are included. All are low neck, short sleeve.

India Linon, Square neck, elbow sleeves, lace trimmed and embroidered.

Tailored waists of flaxon or madras. Low neck, short sleeves, soft collar and cuffs, neat patch pockets.

Middy blouses with new trimmings that make them most attractive. All white, or white trimmed with blue or red. Workmanship and materials are very high grade. Price $1.00.

1852

HUNT'S

1914

Mr. Frank H. Bierbower, who was hurt in an accident some time ago, is last evening on a visit to his parents, Major and Mrs. John Walsh of Third street. After spending a few days here with Mr. Johnson's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Young of West Second street, they will leave for their home in Charleston, W. Va.

Mr. Gifford Walsh and bride arrived in Kentucky are spending the day with Mr. Johnson's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Young of West Second street.

Senator J. B. Foraker has accepted the invitation of the Soldiers of the 11th and 12th Regiments, Ohio, to be present at the annual reunion on the Hillsboro grounds August 5th, and deliver an address.

Saturday Will Be RED LETTER DAY

DOUBLE STAMPS! DOUBLE STAMPS. CROWDS—CASH—COMPLIMENTS. They come, they buy, they wonder! THE REBUILDING SALE IS THE TALK OF THE TOWN. A general invitation: Come in and let's whisper the prices in your ear; some of them are so low it's impossible to hear them from the outside.

OXFORDS LADIES

$4.00 Grade$3.19
$3.50 Grade$2.85
$2.50 Grade$1.85
One lot at$1.00

MISSSES

$1.75 Grade$1.19
$1.50 Grade$1.00
$1.00 Grade$.75

BOYS

$3.00 Grade$2.48
$2.75 Grade$1.98
$1.50 Grade$1.19

MENS

$1.50 Grade$1.19

$3.50 Grade$2.85
$3.00 Grade$2.48
One lot at$1.00

One lot of Men's Work Shoes.

Calicoes—4½c yard.

Apron Gingham—5c yard.

Fancy Lawns—4c yard.

Sail Cloth Mops—75c.

Bungalow Aprons—39c.

Ladies' Suits, Ladies' Coats and Trimmed Hats ½ price.

One lot of Fancy Dresses $1.98. Worth up to $5.00.

"Royal" Waists—$1.98. Worth up to $5.00.

Wool Fibre Rugs, 9x12—$6.95.

Woven Matting Rugs, 9x12—$1.98.

Hearth Size Axminster Rugs—$1.

Matting Rugs—50c.

House Dresses—98c.

Single Shirts—50c.

ECONOMY FRUIT MARS

The Hollow of Her Hand

by George Barr McCutcheon

COPYRIGHT, 1912 BY GEORGE BARR MCCUTCHEON; COPYRIGHT, 1912 BY DODD, MEAD & COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

Challis Wrاندall is found murdered in a road house near New York. Mrs. Wrاندall is summoned from the city and identifies the body. A young woman who accompanied Wrاندall to the inn and subsequently disappeared is supposed to be Mrs. Wrاندall. She starts back for New York in an auto during a blinding snow storm. On the way she meets a young woman in the road who proves to be the woman who killed Wrاندall. Feeling that the girl had done her service in ridding her of the man who though she loved him deeply had caused her great sorrow, Mrs. Wrاندall determines to shield her and takes her to her own home. Mrs. Wrاندall hears the story of Hetty Castleton's life, except that portion that relates to Wrاندall. This and the story of the tragedy she forbids the girl ever to tell. She offers Hetty a home, friendship and security from peril on account of the tragedy. Sara Wrاندall and Hetty return to New York after an absence of a year in Europe. Leslie Wrاندall, brother of Challis, becomes greatly interested in Hetty. Sara sees in Leslie's infatuation possibility for revenge on the Wrاندalls and repatriation for the wrongs she suffered at the hands of Challis Wrاندall by marrying his murderer into the family. Leslie, in company with his friend Brandon Booth, an artist, visits Sara at her country place. Leslie confesses to Sara that he is madly in love with Hetty. Sara arranges for Booth to paint a picture of Hetty. Booth has a haunting feeling that he has seen her before. He looks through a portfolio of pictures by an unknown English artist and finds one of Hetty. He speaks to her about it. Hetty declares it must be a picture of Hetty Glynn, an English actress, who resembles her very much. Much to his chagrin, Leslie is refused by Hetty. Booth and Hetty confess their love for each other, but the latter declares that she can never marry as there is an insurmountable barrier in the way. Hetty admits to Sara that she loves Booth. She tells her that she must marry Leslie, who must be made to pay his brother's debt to the world. Sara inuends Hetty to tell the real story of the tragedy and Sara threatens to strangle her if she says a word. Sara inuends Hetty to tell the real story of the tragedy and Sara threatens to strangle her if she says a word. Sara inuends Hetty to tell the real story of the tragedy and Sara threatens to strangle her if she says a word.

CHAPTER XIV.—Continued.

When the night boat from Dover to Calais slipped away from her moorings that evening, Hetty Castleton and her maid were on board, with all their bags and trunks, and Brandon Booth was supposed to be completely at sea in the heart of that glittering London town.

The night was fog-laden and dripping, and the crossing promised to be unpleasant. Wrapped in a thick easterly Hetty sat huddled up in the lee of the deckhouse, sick at heart and miserable. She reproached herself for the curvy trick she was playing on him, reviled herself and yet pitied herself.

A tall man came shambling down the narrow space along the rail and stopped directly in front of her. She started in alarm as he reached out his hand to support himself against the deckhouse. As he leaned forward, he laughed.

"You were thinking of me, Hetty," said the man.

For a long time she stared at him, transfixed, and then, with a low moan, covered her eyes with her hands.

"Is it true—is it a dream?" she sobbed.

He dropped down beside her and gathered her in his strong, eager arms. "You were thinking of me, weren't you? And reproaching yourself, and wishing yourself for running away like a thief?"

"I thought so. Well, you might as well try to dodge the smart-detective in the world as to give the slip now, darling."

"You—you spled on me!" she cried, muffled tones. She lay very limp in his arms.

"I did," he confessed, without shame. "God, when I think of what I might be doing at this moment if I hadn't found you out in time! Think of me back there in London, racing about like a madman, searching for you in every—"

"Please, please!" she implored. "But luck was with me. You can't get away, Hetty. I shan't let you out of my sight again. I'll camp in front of your door and you'll see me wither and die of sleeplessness, for one or the other of my eyes will always be open."

"Oh, I am so tired, so miserable," she murmured.

"Poor little sweetheart!" "I wish you would hate me."

"Lie where you are, dearest, and—forget!"

"If I only could—forget!"

"Rest. I will hold you tight and keep you warm. We're in for a nasty crossing, but it is paradise for me. I am mad with the delight of having you here, holding you close to me, feeling you in my arms. The wilder the night the better, for I am wild with the joy of it all. We will love you!" He turned to her and in a sort of said oh, I shall always believe in fairies."

A long time afterward the throbbing ceased, bell-buoys whistled and clanged about them; the sea suddenly grew calm and lifeless; they slid over it as if it were a quivering sheet of ice; and lights sneaked out of the fog and approached with stealthy swiftness. Bells rang below and above them, sailors sprang up from everywhere and calls were heard below; the rattling of chains and the thumping of heavy luggage took the place of that steady, monotonous beat of the engines. People began to infest the deck, limp and groaning, harassed but voiceless. A mighty sigh seemed to envelop the whole ship—a sigh of relief.

Then it was that these two arose stiffly from their sheltered perch and gave heed to the things that were about them.

The channel was behind them.

CHAPTER XV.

Rattling Old Bones.

They journeyed to Paris by the night mail. He was waiting for her on the platform when she descended from the wagon lit in the Gare du Nord. Sleepy passengers crowded with them into the customs department. She, alone among them all, was smiling brightly, as if the world could be sweet at an hour when, by all odds, it should be sleepless.

"I was up and on the lookout for you at Amiens," he declared, as they walked off together. "You might have got off there, you know," with a wry grin.

"I shall not run away from you again, Brandon," she said earnestly. "I promise, on my honor."

"By Jove," he cried, "that's a relief!" Then he broke into a happy laugh.

"I shall go to the Ritz," she said, after her effects had been examined and were ready for release.

"I thought so," he announced calmly. "I wired for rooms before I left London."

"Really, this is ridiculous," he pleaded.

As they rattled and bounced over the cobbles in a taxi-motor on the way to the Place Vendôme, he devoted the whole of his conversation to the delicious breakfast they were to have, expatiating glibly on the wonderful berries that would come first at that always-to-be-remembered meal.

She was ravenously hungry by the time they reached the hotel, just from listening to his dissertation on chops and rolls and coffee as they are served in Paris, to say nothing of waffles and honey and the marmalade that no Englishman can do without.

Alone in his room, however, he was quite another person. His calm assurance took flight the instant he closed the door and moodily began to prepare for his bath. Resolution was undiminished, but the facts in the case were most desolating. Whatever it was that stood between them, there was no gnawing its power to influence their lives. It was too trifling that caused her to take this second flight, and the sooner he came to realize the seriousness of opposition the better.

He made up his mind on one point in that half-hour before breakfast; if she asked him again to let her go her way in peace, it was only fair to her and right that he should submit to the inevitable. She loved him, he was sure of it. Then there must be a very good reason for her perplexing attitude toward him. He would make one more attempt to have the truth from her. Failing in that, he would accept the situation as hopeless, for the time being at least. She should know that he loved her deeply enough for that.

She joined him in the little open-air cafe, and they sat down at a table in a remote corner. There were few people breakfasting. In her tender blue eyes there was a look of sadness that haunted him, even as she smiled and called him beloved.

"Hetty, darling," he said, leaning forward and laying his hand on hers, "can't you tell me what it is?"

She was prepared for the question. In her heart she knew the time had come when she must be fair with him. He observed the pallor that stole into her warm, smooth cheeks as she regarded him fixedly for a long time before replying.

"There is only one person in the world who can tell you, Brandon. It is for her to decide. I mean Sara Wrاندall."

He felt a queer, sickening sensation of uneasiness sneak into existence. In the back of his mind, a hateful fear began to shape itself. For a long time he looked into her somber eyes, and as he looked the fear that was hateful took on something of a definite shape.

"Did you know her husband?" he asked, and somehow he knew what the answer would be.

"Yes," she replied, after a moment. She was startled. Her lips remained parted.

He watched her closely. "Has this secret anything to do with Challis Wrاندall?"

"It has," said she, meeting his gaze steadily.

His hands clenched the edge of the table in a grip that turned the knuckles white.

"Hetty!" he cried, in a hoarse whisper. "You—can't mean that you—"

"You must go to Sara," she cried hurriedly. "Haven't I told you that she is the one?"

"Were you in love with that infernal scoundrel?" he demanded fiercely.

"Sara knows everything. She will tell you."

"Are you carrying on an affair with her?" he asked, while professing to be the his wife? Tell me that! Did can tell you no more. Why do you glare at me as if I were the meanest thing on earth? Is this love? Is this your idea of greatness? Isn't it enough for you to know that Sara is my loyal, devoted friend; that she—"

"Wait!" he commanded darkly. "Is it possible that she did not discover your secret until the day you left her house so abruptly? Does that explain your sudden departure?"

"I can answer that," she said quietly. "She has known everything from the day I met her. I have not said anything, Brandon, to lead you to believe that I was in love with Challis Wrاندall, have I?"

His eyes softened. "No, you haven't. I hope you will forget what I said. You see, I knew Wrاندall's reputation. He had no sense of honor. He—"

"Well, I have!" she said lovingly.

He flushed. "I am a beast! I'll put it in this way, then: Was he in love with you?"

"You are still unfair. I shall not answer."

He was silent for a long time. "And Sara's lips are sealed," he mused, still possessed of doubts and fears.

"Until she elects to tell the story, dearest love, my lips are also sealed. I love you better than anything else in all this world. I could willingly offer up my life for you, but—well, my life does not belong to me. It is Sara's."

"For heaven's sake, Hetty, what is all this?" he cried in desperation.

"I can say no more. It is useless to insist, Brandon. If you can wrest the story from her, all well and good. You will hate me then, dear love. But it cannot be helped. I am prepared."

"Tell me this much: When you refused to marry Leslie, was your course inspired by what had happened in—in connection with Challis Wrاندall?"

"You forget that it is you that I love," she responded simply.

"But why should Sara urge you to marry Leslie if there is anything—"

"Hush! There is the waiter. Come to my sitting-room after breakfast. I have something to say to you. We must come to a definite understanding. This cannot go on."

It was with her for an hour in that pinched little sitting-room, and left her there without a vestige of rancor in his soul. She would not give an inch in the stand she had taken, but something immeasurably great in his make-up rose to the occasion and he went forth with the conviction that he had life. The chance companions she formed at later dates—despite a well-meant reserve—served only to increase her feeling of loneliness and despair. The very natural attentions of men, young and old, depressed her, instead of encouraging that essentially feminine thing called vanity. She lived as one without an aim, without a single purpose except to close one day that she might begin the next.

After a time, she went on to Lucerne. Here the life on the surface was gay, and she was roused from her state of lethargy in spite of herself. Once, from her little balcony in the National, she saw two of her old acquaintances in the chorus at the Gaiety. They were wearing many perils. Another time, she met them in the street. She was rather quietly dressed. They did not notice her. But the prosperous Hebraic gentlemen who attended them were not so careless.

One day a card was brought to her rooms. For the next two weeks she had a true and unavoidable friend in Lucerne. It would appear that Mrs. Rowe-Martin had not been apprised of the rift in the Wrاندall life. She had no reason to consider the exclusive Miss Castleton as anything but the most desirable of companions. Mrs. Rowe-Martin was not long in finding grimness in the way he said it that gave her something to cherish during the months to come; the hope that he would come back and take her in spite of herself.

He sniled from Cherbourg on the first steamship calling there. Awake, he thought of her; asleep, he dreamed of Challis Wrاندall. There was something uncanny in the persistence with which that ruthless despoiler of peace forced his way into his dreams, to the absolute exclusion of all else. The voyage home was made horrid by these nightly reminders of a man he scarcely knew, yet dreaded. He became more or less obsessed by the idea that an evil spell had descended upon him in the shape of a ghastly influence.

The weeks passed slowly for Hetty. There were no letters from Sara, but an occasional line or so from Mr. Carroll. She had made Brandon Booth promise that he would not write to her, nor was he to expect anything from her. If her intention was to cut herself off entirely from her recent world and its people, as she might have done in another way by pursuing the time-honored and rather cowardly plan of entering a convent, she was soon to discover that success in the undertaking brought a deeper sense of exile than she could have imagined herself able to endure at the outset.

She found herself more utterly alone and friendless than at any time in her life. The chance companions she formed at later dates—despite a well-meant reserve—served only to increase her feeling of loneliness and despair. The very natural attentions of men, young and old, depressed her, instead of encouraging that essentially feminine thing called vanity. She lived as one without an aim, without a single purpose except to close one day that she might begin the next.

After a time, she went on to Lucerne. Here the life on the surface was gay, and she was roused from her state of lethargy in spite of herself. Once, from her little balcony in the National, she saw two of her old acquaintances in the chorus at the Gaiety. They were wearing many perils. Another time, she met them in the street. She was rather quietly dressed. They did not notice her. But the prosperous Hebraic gentlemen who attended them were not so careless.

One day a card was brought to her rooms. For the next two weeks she had a true and unavoidable friend in Lucerne. It would appear that Mrs. Rowe-Martin had not been apprised of the rift in the Wrاندall life. She had no reason to consider the exclusive Miss Castleton as anything but the most desirable of companions. Mrs. Rowe-Martin was not long in finding world and its people, as she might have done in another way by pursuing the time-honored and rather cowardly plan of entering a convent, she was soon to discover that success in the undertaking brought a deeper sense of exile than she could have imagined herself able to endure at the outset.

She found herself more utterly alone and friendless than at any time in her life. The chance companions she formed at later dates—despite a well-meant reserve—served only to increase her feeling of loneliness and despair. The very natural attentions of men, young and old, depressed her, instead of encouraging that essentially feminine thing called vanity. She lived as one without an aim, without a single purpose except to close one day that she might begin the next.

After a time, she went on to Lucerne. Here the life on the surface was gay, and she was roused from her state of lethargy in spite of herself. Once, from her little balcony in the National, she saw two of her old acquaintances in the chorus at the Gaiety. They were wearing many perils. Another time, she met them in the street. She was rather quietly dressed. They did not notice her. But the prosperous Hebraic gentlemen who attended them were not so careless.

One day a card was brought to her rooms. For the next two weeks she had a true and unavoidable friend in Lucerne. It would appear that Mrs. Rowe-Martin had not been apprised of the rift in the Wrاندall life. She had no reason to consider the exclusive Miss Castleton as anything but the most desirable of companions. Mrs. Rowe-Martin was not long in finding world and its people, as she might have done in another way by pursuing the time-honored and rather cowardly plan of entering a convent, she was soon to discover that success in the undertaking brought a deeper sense of exile than she could have imagined herself able to endure at the outset.

She found herself more utterly alone and friendless than at any time in her life. The chance companions she formed at later dates—despite a well-meant reserve—served only to increase her feeling of loneliness and despair. The very natural attentions of men, young and old, depressed her, instead of encouraging that essentially feminine thing called vanity. She lived as one without an aim, without a single purpose except to close one day that she might begin the next.

After a time, she went on to Lucerne. Here the life on the surface was gay, and she was roused from her state of lethargy in spite of herself. Once, from her little balcony in the National, she saw two of her old acquaintances in the chorus at the Gaiety. They were wearing many perils. Another time, she met them in the street. She was rather quietly dressed. They did not notice her. But the prosperous Hebraic gentlemen who attended them were not so careless.

One day a card was brought to her rooms. For the next two weeks she had a true and unavoidable friend in Lucerne. It would appear that Mrs. Rowe-Martin had not been apprised of the rift in the Wrاندall life. She had no reason to consider the exclusive Miss Castleton as anything but the most desirable of companions. Mrs. Rowe-Martin was not long in finding world and its people, as she might have done in another way by pursuing the time-honored and rather cowardly plan of entering a convent, she was soon to discover that success in the undertaking brought a deeper sense of exile than she could have imagined herself able to endure at the outset.

She found herself more utterly alone and friendless than at any time in her life. The chance companions she formed at later dates—despite a well-meant reserve—served only to increase her feeling of loneliness and despair. The very natural attentions of men, young and old, depressed her, instead of encouraging that essentially feminine thing called vanity. She lived as one without an aim, without a single purpose except to close one day that she might begin the next.

After a time, she went on to Lucerne. Here the life on the surface was gay, and she was roused from her state of lethargy in spite of herself. Once, from her little balcony in the National, she saw two of her old acquaintances in the chorus at the Gaiety. They were wearing many perils. Another time, she met them in the street. She was rather quietly dressed. They did not notice her. But the prosperous Hebraic gentlemen who attended them were not so careless.

One day a card was brought to her rooms. For the next two weeks she had a true and unavoidable friend in Lucerne. It would appear that Mrs. Rowe-Martin had not been apprised of the rift in the Wrاندall life. She had no reason to consider the exclusive Miss Castleton as anything but the most desirable of companions. Mrs. Rowe-Martin was not long in finding world and its people, as she might have done in another way by pursuing the time-honored and rather cowardly plan of entering a convent, she was soon to discover that success in the undertaking brought a deeper sense of exile than she could have imagined herself able to endure at the outset.

She found herself more utterly alone and friendless than at any time in her life. The chance companions she formed at later dates—despite a well-meant reserve—served only to increase her feeling of loneliness and despair. The very natural attentions of men, young and old, depressed her, instead of encouraging that essentially feminine thing called vanity. She lived as one without an aim, without a single purpose except to close one day that she might begin the next.

After a time, she went on to Lucerne. Here the life on the surface was gay, and she was roused from her state of lethargy in spite of herself. Once, from her little balcony in the National, she saw two of her old acquaintances in the chorus at the Gaiety. They were wearing many perils. Another time, she met them in the street. She was rather quietly dressed. They did not notice her. But the prosperous Hebraic gentlemen who attended them were not so careless.

One day a card was brought to her rooms. For the next two weeks she had a true and unavoidable friend in Lucerne. It would appear that Mrs. Rowe-Martin had not been apprised of the rift in the Wrاندall life. She had no reason to consider the exclusive Miss Castleton as anything but the most desirable of companions. Mrs. Rowe-Martin was not long in finding world and its people, as she might have done in another way by pursuing the time-honored and rather cowardly plan of entering a convent, she was soon to discover that success in the undertaking brought a deeper sense of exile than she could have imagined herself able to endure at the outset.

She found herself more utterly alone and friendless than at any time in her life. The chance companions she formed at later dates—despite a well-meant reserve—served only to increase her feeling of loneliness and despair. The very natural attentions of men, young and old, depressed her, instead of encouraging that essentially feminine thing called vanity. She lived as one without an aim, without a single purpose except to close one day that she might begin the next.

After a time, she went on to Lucerne. Here the life on the surface was gay, and she was roused from her state of lethargy in spite of herself. Once, from her little balcony in the National, she saw two of her old acquaintances in the chorus at the Gaiety. They were wearing many perils. Another time, she met them in the street. She was rather quietly dressed. They did not notice her. But the prosperous Hebraic gentlemen who attended them were not so careless.

One day a card was brought to her rooms. For the next two weeks she had a true and unavoidable friend in Lucerne. It would appear that Mrs. Rowe-Martin had not been apprised of the rift in the Wrاندall life. She had no reason to consider the exclusive Miss Castleton as anything but the most desirable of companions. Mrs. Rowe-Martin was not long in finding world and its people, as she might have done in another way by pursuing the time-honored and rather cowardly plan of entering a convent, she was soon to discover that success in the undertaking brought a deeper sense of exile than she could have imagined herself able to endure at the outset.

She found herself more utterly alone and friendless than at any time in her life. The chance companions she formed at later dates—despite a well-meant reserve—served only to increase her feeling of loneliness and despair. The very natural attentions of men, young and old, depressed her, instead of encouraging that essentially feminine thing called vanity. She lived as one without an aim, without a single purpose except to close one day that she might begin the next.

After a time, she went on to Lucerne. Here the life on the surface was gay, and she was roused from her state of lethargy in spite of herself. Once, from her little balcony in the National, she saw two of her old acquaintances in the chorus at the Gaiety. They were wearing many perils. Another time, she met them in the street. She was rather quietly dressed. They did not notice her. But the prosperous Hebraic gentlemen who attended them were not so careless.

One day a card was brought to her rooms. For the next two weeks she had a true and unavoidable friend in Lucerne. It would appear that Mrs. Rowe-Martin had not been apprised of the rift in the Wrاندall life. She had no reason to consider the exclusive Miss Castleton as anything but the most desirable of companions. Mrs. Rowe-Martin was not long in finding world and its people, as she might have done in another way by pursuing the time-honored and rather cowardly plan of entering a convent, she was soon to discover that success in the undertaking brought a deeper sense of exile than she could have imagined herself able to endure at the outset.

She found herself more utterly alone and friendless than at any time in her life. The chance companions she formed at later dates—despite a well-meant reserve—served only to increase her feeling of loneliness and despair. The very natural attentions of men, young and old, depressed her, instead of encouraging that essentially feminine thing called vanity. She lived as one without an aim, without a single purpose except to close one day that she might begin the next.

After a time, she went on to Lucerne. Here the life on the surface was gay, and she was roused from her state of lethargy in spite of herself. Once, from her little balcony in the National, she saw two of her old acquaintances in the chorus at the Gaiety. They were wearing many perils. Another time, she met them in the street. She was rather quietly dressed. They did not notice her. But the prosperous Hebraic gentlemen who attended them were not so careless.

One day a card was brought to her rooms. For the next two weeks she had a true and unavoidable friend in Lucerne. It would appear that Mrs. Rowe-Martin had not been apprised of the rift in the Wrاندall life. She had no reason to consider the exclusive Miss Castleton as anything but the most desirable of companions. Mrs. Rowe-Martin was not long in finding world and its people, as she might have done in another way by pursuing the time-honored and rather cowardly plan of entering a convent, she was soon to discover that success in the undertaking brought a deeper sense of exile than she could have imagined herself able to endure at the outset.

She found herself more utterly alone and friendless than at any time in her life. The chance companions she formed at later dates—despite a well-meant reserve—served only to increase her feeling of loneliness and despair. The very natural attentions of men, young and old, depressed her, instead of encouraging that essentially feminine thing called vanity. She lived as one without an aim, without a single purpose except to close one day that she might begin the next.

After a time, she went on to Lucerne. Here the life on the surface was gay, and she was roused from her state of lethargy in spite of herself. Once, from her little balcony in the National, she saw two of her old acquaintances in the chorus at the Gaiety. They were wearing many perils. Another time, she met them in the street. She was rather quietly dressed. They did not notice her. But the prosperous Hebraic gentlemen who attended them were not so careless.

One day a card was brought to her rooms. For the next two weeks she had a true and unavoidable friend in Lucerne. It would appear that Mrs. Rowe-Martin had not been apprised of the rift in the Wrاندall life. She had no reason to consider the exclusive Miss Castleton as anything but the most desirable of companions. Mrs. Rowe-Martin was not long in finding world and its people, as she might have done in another way by pursuing the time-honored and rather cowardly plan of entering a convent, she was soon to discover that success in the undertaking brought a deeper sense of exile than she could have imagined herself able to endure at the outset.

She found herself more utterly alone and friendless than at any time in her life. The chance companions she formed at later dates—despite a well-meant reserve—served only to increase her feeling of loneliness and despair. The very natural attentions of men, young and old, depressed her, instead of encouraging that essentially feminine thing called vanity. She lived as one without an aim, without a single purpose except to close one day that she might begin the next.

After a time, she went on to Lucerne. Here the life on the surface was gay, and she was roused from her state of lethargy in spite of herself. Once, from her little balcony in the National, she saw two of her old acquaintances in the chorus at the Gaiety. They were wearing many perils. Another time, she met them in the street. She was rather quietly dressed. They did not notice her. But the prosperous Hebraic gentlemen who attended them were not so careless.

One day a card was brought to her rooms. For the next two weeks she had a true and unavoidable friend in Lucerne. It would appear that Mrs. Rowe-Martin had not been apprised of the rift in the Wrاندall life. She had no reason to consider the exclusive Miss Castleton as anything but the most desirable of companions. Mrs. Rowe-Martin was not long in finding world and its people, as she might have done in another way by pursuing the time-honored and rather cowardly plan of entering a convent, she was soon to discover that success in the undertaking brought a deeper sense of exile than she could have imagined herself able to endure at the outset.

She found herself more utterly alone and friendless than at any time in her life. The chance companions she formed at later dates—despite a well-meant reserve—served only to increase her feeling of loneliness and despair. The very natural attentions of men, young and old, depressed her, instead of encouraging that essentially feminine thing called vanity. She lived as one without an aim, without a single purpose except to close one day that she might begin the next.

After a time, she went on to Lucerne. Here the life on the surface was gay, and she was roused from her state of lethargy in spite of herself. Once, from her little balcony in the National, she saw two of her old acquaintances in the chorus at the Gaiety. They were wearing many perils. Another time, she met them in the street. She was rather quietly dressed. They did not notice her. But the prosperous Hebraic gentlemen who attended them were not so careless.

One day a card was brought to her rooms. For the next two weeks she had a true and unavoidable friend in Lucerne. It would appear that Mrs. Rowe-Martin had not been apprised of the rift in the Wrاندall life. She had no reason to consider the exclusive Miss Castleton as anything but the most desirable of companions. Mrs. Rowe-Martin was not long in finding world and its people, as she might have done in another way by pursuing the time-honored and rather cowardly plan of entering a convent, she was soon to discover that success in the undertaking brought a deeper sense of exile than she could have imagined herself able to endure at the outset.

She found herself more utterly alone and friendless than at any time in her life. The chance companions she formed at later dates—despite a well-meant reserve—served only to increase her feeling of loneliness and despair. The very natural attentions of men, young and old, depressed her, instead of encouraging that essentially feminine thing called vanity. She lived as one without an aim, without a single purpose except to close one day that she might begin the next.

After a time, she went on to Lucerne. Here the life on the surface was gay, and she was roused from her state of lethargy in spite of herself. Once, from her little balcony in the National, she saw two of her old acquaintances in the chorus at the Gaiety. They were wearing many perils. Another time, she met them in the street. She was rather quietly dressed. They did not notice her. But the prosperous Hebraic gentlemen who attended them were not so careless.

One day a card was brought to her rooms. For the next two weeks she had a true and unavoidable friend in Lucerne. It would appear that Mrs. Rowe-Martin had not been apprised of the rift in the Wrاندall life. She had no reason to consider the exclusive Miss Castleton as anything but the most desirable of companions. Mrs. Rowe-Martin was not long in finding world and its people, as she might have done in another way by pursuing the time-honored and rather cowardly plan of entering a convent, she was soon to discover that success in the undertaking brought a deeper sense of exile than she could have imagined herself able to endure at the outset.

She found herself more utterly alone and friendless than at any time in her life. The chance companions she formed at later dates—despite a well-meant reserve—served only to increase her feeling of loneliness and despair. The very natural attentions of men, young and old, depressed her, instead of encouraging that essentially feminine thing called vanity. She lived as one without an aim, without a single purpose except to close one day that she might begin the next.

After a time, she went on to Lucerne. Here the life on the surface was gay, and she was roused from her state of lethargy in spite of herself. Once, from her little balcony in the National, she saw two of her old acquaintances in the chorus at the Gaiety. They were wearing many perils. Another time, she met them in the street. She was rather quietly dressed. They did not notice her. But the prosperous Hebraic gentlemen who attended them were not so careless.

One day a card was brought to her rooms. For the next two weeks

PESTERS SHOULD GIVE THEIR ATTENTION TO GREEN APPLE APHIDS

Nearly Every Section of Kentucky Was Attacked By This Scourge In 1913 and the Same Trouble Can Be Expected Again This Year—The Methods of Control

During the spring of nineteen thirteen, Kentucky passed through a very severe scourge of green apple aphids, more commonly called plant lice. Nearly every apple-growing section of the state was attacked and in some instances the crop for the season was a complete loss due to the ravages of this little pest. Since we are liable to a repetition of this same trouble again this year, it is well to call the growers' attention to it before it is too late.

The work of the aphid is familiar to everyone who has had any experience in an orchard. Their presence is usually characterized by the curling of the leaves and malformation of the blossoms and fruit. In orchards where the aphid has been particularly bad the previous season, many gnarly ill-formed apples will be found clinging to the trees long after the leaves drop. If the injury were confined to the fruit alone, it would not be so bad, but the aphid also attacks the young growing shoots, thereby weakening them and the tree so that the chances for a stand of fruit another season is greatly lessened.

Twig infested with green aphids.

The life history of the green apple aphid is quite complex. Small, shiny, black eggs are laid in the fall usually on the tips of twigs under the bud scales and on roughened areas of the branch. About the time the leaves are beginning to burst forth in the spring the aphids appear. They are small, greenish yellow insects, and are usually found on the under side of the leaves. As the season advances and their numbers increase, they spread to the nearby stems, leaves and branches.

The insect that hatches from the egg in the spring is known as the "mother," because she is the mother of all the future generations produced during the summer and fall. She produces her young alive and later on, in succeeding generations, winged forms appear that are able to migrate to other hosts.

THE SEED CORN MAGGOT AND OTHER INSECTS ATTACKING SPROUTING CORN.

Complaints of injury to germinating seed corn by a small footless maggot have recently reached the station, and on examination the mischief proves to be the work of the above insect. It is a young of a small gray fly resembling in a general way the house fly, but very much smaller. The maggot works into the sprouting corn, along the germ, and once inside the substance so as to weaken the young plant. Specimens from the experiment station from Hamilton and Mayville are about one-half of an inch long, yellowish-white, the body blunt behind and tapering to the front; the mouth provided with a pair of black hooks, the tips of which, emerging from the mouth, are used in boring into the seed. The legs are small, and the wings are folded over the back.

This insect is a good many other plants besides corn in cultivated ground, and is especially common and injurious to onion, beet and hemp, and is thus likely to be common in corn following these crops. It is not to be regarded as one of the most serious corn pests, however, its appearance in corn being occasional and its depredations generally local.

Where it is giving trouble, it is suggested that the corn used for replanting be treated with coal tar as follows: Soak the seed corn for a couple of minutes in warm water, then stir among it quickly a couple of teaspoonfuls of coal tar so as to bring a little

ROOTS WILL MAKE COLT THRIFTY

Cooked roots, mixed with wheat bran or ground oats or barley occasionally, will go a long way in making a better and more thrifty colt.

A well-bred colt is half of the game—plenty of feed and care is the other half.

For fall pasture sow rape in the grain.

Why not raise more hogs and grain?

HENRY HAD COURAGE

By JANE PHAR.

"He said," Carlisle admitted defiantly, after being pressed to helplessness, "that I'd better have it out. Said it wasn't possible to save it."

"That's too bad," sympathized Mrs. Carlisle. "I'd have it done right away—today."

"Yes," said Carlisle, casually. "No use putting it off."

When he returned home that evening Mrs. Carlisle met him tenderly. "Did it hurt you much?" she inquired. "Huh?" asked Carlisle, blankly. "Why, your tooth—your tooth that I extracted, didn't you?"

"Oh," murmured Carlisle, as though recalled from a long distance. "No—I didn't. I have been too busy, Emily, to think of myself. I didn't have any time. I'll go tomorrow."

"Well?" inquired Mrs. Carlisle, the following evening. "How do you feel, Henry? Was it painful?"

Carlisle paused in the act of removing his overcoat and gazed at her reproachfully. "I wish, Emily," he said, "that you would recollect that I am a business man and not free to follow my own whims and inclinations. You may be able to consult your own pleasure, but you needn't think I can drop a $20,000 deal for the sake of a mere tooth!"

"But the dentist said for you to have it out!" persisted his wife inexorably. "It wouldn't take half an hour! You're just trying to put it off, Henry Carlisle, and I must say that I am surprised at you!"

"No such thing!" cried Mr. Carlisle, with immense indignation. "A baby wouldn't mind having a tooth out nowadays with their modern methods! If you think I am afraid of a trifling unpleasantness—pooh! I'm as hungry as a bear!"

"Henry," said Mrs. Carlisle, the following morning as he left for the office, "I have a favor to ask of you."

"They were telling him to wake up."

ely. She spoke very distinctly. "Remember, you are to go today and have that tooth out!"

"Yes, yes!" agreed Carlisle, with some irritation. "Why do you nag so? I'll drop in on my way to the office and attend to it. I think it's foolish, for it seems like a perfectly good, sound tooth to me!"

"Henry!" cried Mrs. Carlisle, with a sigh. "That afternoon Carlisle phoned her to have him come to dinner with a client and that Mrs. Carlisle was not to sit up for him. She had got as far as asking, 'Did you have—' when the receiver at his end hung up with a click."

At the breakfast table the next morning he got in ahead of her. "No, don't start telling me about that tooth!" he said, with infinite and weighty sarcasm. "I am quite aware, my dear, that I possess a molar which has to be extracted, according to the dentist, in whom, by the way, I haven't any too much faith! I intend, however, to abide by his decision—I can't afford not to when a man is such a pig in his charges as Jenkins—and I have it done today if my business permits. Further than that, I wish nothing said about the affair!"

"You are a coward," stated Mrs. Carlisle, distinctly and unpleasantly. "I never thought my husband would be a—"

The front door banged heavily after Carlisle. Twice that morning Mrs. Carlisle got him on the telephone to make inquiries. The second time he was so violent that she did not wait for him to finish, but hung up the receiver. She gathered that he was engaged in settling the fate of LaSalle street, Wall street and possibly Europe, and if she thought—

Immediately before noon Carlisle's office door opened abruptly and looking up he beheld on the threshold his wife. Carlisle was alone, feet on his desk, cigar in mouth, magazine in hand, an aura of immense leisure surrounding him. He turned pale.

"Henry," said Mrs. Carlisle, "at great inconvenience to myself, I have come down here to accompany you to the tooth extracting bee. If you can leave Wall street and your numerous clients for a short time, I should like you to come with me—tonight!"

Carlisle got on his feet hurriedly and before he knew it was in the fatal chair.

They were telling him to wake up before he was sure that anything was happening to him. Everybody was quite cheerful and casual and acted as though nothing had occurred. In the outer office he met his wife, a little anxious and pale.

"Well?" she asked.

Carlisle smiled at her in a superior way and shrugged into his overcoat. "Why, Emily," he said, "you really act as though you were nervous!"

Chicago Daily News.

HOW WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio—"My left side pained me so for several years that I expected to have to undergo an operation, but the first bottle I took of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of the pains in my side and I continued its use until I became regular and free from pains. I had asked several doctors if there was anything I could take to help me and they said there was nothing that they knew of. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."

—Mrs. C. H. GRIFFITH, 7305 Madison Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

Hanover, Pa.—"I suffered from female trouble and the pains were so bad at times that I could not sit down. The doctor advised a severe operation but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it. What joy and happiness it is to be well once more. I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Compound."

—Mrs. ADA WILT, 196 Stock St., Hanover, Pa.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Ever know a young widow to faint if there was no man around?

SHAKE INTO YOUR SHOES Allen's Foot-Powder, the Antiseptic powder for Tired, Tender, swollen, nervous feet. Gives rest and comfort. Makes dancing a delight. Sold everywhere. 25c. Don't accept any substitute. For FREE sample, address Allen S. Outcalt, Le Roy, N. Y., Ad.

Stationery Talk. "I like your address," said the postage-stamp to the envelope.

"If it were not for my address I don't suppose you would be stuck on me," replied the envelope.

Where the Adage is True. Gobaugh—I attended a spiritualistic seance last night and the spirit of my father appeared.

Grymes—You should remember that appearances are deceptive.

Professional Courtesy. Two Texas doctors met on the street.

"I feel sorry for you. You ought not to be out in this kind of weather. You are a sick man," said Dr. Blister.

"I am not feeling very well," replied Dr. Snootover.

"What doctor is treating you?" "I am prescribing for myself."

"You shouldn't do that. You are liable to be arrested for attempted suicide."

Wanted to See Novelty. A little girl's uncle wrote her a letter, using a "script" typewriter, the letters of which were joined as those in ordinary handwriting. The little girl noticed the difference between this type and that more generally used, with interest.

"Oh, uncle, uncle," she cried, upon her next visit to his office, "I want to see the typewriter that writes words instead of letters!"

MADE A PERSONAL APPEAL

Tailor's Desperate Endeavor to Make Convention Listen to "His Best Customer."

Heglar O'Loughlin of Brooklyn will think twice before he undertakes to address another convention of tailors. His own tailor led him into it.

O'Loughlin put on his openwork clothes and sat on the platform. Tailors, cutters, buyers, city salesmen, busheims, models, bosses, other items of the tailoring industry buzzed loudly on the floor. Now and then some man would enter and be greeted with applause.

"That," said O'Loughlin's tailor and guide, "is Max Schelmer, he is the buyer for Lipman & Menz."

Hours O'Loughlin sat there. At last he was introduced as the next speaker. No one paid the least attention to him. Conversation rose toward the heights of emotion. After three false starts O'Loughlin sat down. He was angry enough for arson. His tailor saw the black rage on his brow.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he belatedly, whacking at the table with his gavel. "You should listen to Mr. O'Loughlin. He is my best customer.—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

The Middle Course. Senator Root at a reception was discussing the Mexican situation.

"Steer a middle course," he said to an extremist. "These extreme ideas are always wrong."

"Thus at tea, one young girl asked another: 'And where are you going this summer, dear?'"

"From the way mother talks," was the reply, "you'd think we were going to Newport. From the way father talks you'd think we were going to starve. But I suppose we'll steer a middle course, as usual, and put in a fortnight at a $12 Atlantic City boarding house."

Don't be misled. Ask for Red Cross Ball Blue. Makes beautiful white clothes. At all good grocers. Adv.

Business Is on Its Way Out Again. Speaking of the business outlook the Manufacturers' Record says that a group of New York men had gathered in a rather mournful spirit, and as they discussed the business outlook, which seemed to them to grow darker and darker, one wit in the party, turning to a staid, much perturbed financier, said:

"Mr. Blank, can you tell me how far a dog can run into the woods?"

Mr. Blank, somewhat irritated at such a trivial remark at a time of serious discussion, rather tartly replied that "he supposed a dog could run into the woods just as far as he wanted to."

"No," said the questioner, "when he has run half-way into the woods he is then running out of the woods."

Easily Accomplished. Judge Hanington, when leader of the opposition in the New Brunswick legislature, representing the county of Westmoreland, was once delivering a vigorous address in the house against some measure of the government; then led by Mr. Blair.

"Oh, that my constituents in Westmoreland could hear me now," exclaimed the opposition leader in violent tones.

Mr. Blair motioned to an attendant. "Open the windows," he said.

As to Jones. "Jones puts his watch under his pillow nights."

"I notice he likes to sleep over time."

Most men would be ashamed to preach half what they practise.

Libby's Lun Delica

Dried Beef, sliced wafer thin, Hickory Smoke a choice flavor that you will remember.

Vienna Sausage—just right for Red Hots, or to serve We suggest you try them served like this: Cut rye bread slices, spread with creamed butter and remove crusts. Cut a Libby's Vienna Sausage in half, lengthwise, and lay on the bread. Place on the top of the sausage a few thin slices of Libby's Midget Pickles. Cover with the other slice of bread and press lightly together. Arrange on plate and serve garnished with a few parsley sprays.

Libby, McNeill & Libby Chicago

Vienna Style Sausage

Water Sliced Dried Beef

Libby, McNeill & Libby Chicago

Libby, McNeill & Libby Chicago

For Convenience, Economy and Safety Use the "NEW BOSS" Blue Flame, Wick Oil Stove

Burns ordinary Kerosene Oil, lights up instantly like gas, burns a perfectly blue flame without smoke or odor.

The intensely hot fire enables you to cook, bake, fry or iron as quickly as on a gas stove. Just as simple and safe to operate as an oil lamp.

Three sizes 2, 3 and 4 burners with or without high warming shelf. Write today for Catalog.

Made by the Hunsflet Company, 2800 Spring Grove Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio

Sold by Dealers Everywhere

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM A toilet preparation of merit. Helps to eradicate dandruff. For Restoring Color and Beauty to Gray or Faded Hair. 50c. and $1.00 at Drugists.

DETECTIVE AND BURGLAR "Andy Grimm," the greatest detective story ever written. Just started as a serial story in the Rocky Mountain Magazine, Denver, Colo., published twice a year. Story never in print before. Send 25c for one year. Special offer to July 15. Stamps or silver.

W. N. U., CINCINNATI, NO. 25-1914.

Where He Came In. Grace was a country girl, whose parents sent her to the city to attend college. When the holidays came around and she came home, her mother gave a reception in her honor.

Some of the girl friends asked Grace to show them her new gowns. Obliging she brought out several modish gowns, and, holding up a particularly pretty one of silk, she said:

"Isn't this one perfectly beautiful? And just think, it came from a poor, little insignificant worm!"

Her hard-working father was seated near, watching the performance, and he replied:

"Yes, darn it, and I'm that worm!" —Lippincott's.

Saved. The chief Powhatan was about to pulverize Mr. John Smith when a shriek rent the air and Pocahontas stood beside them.

"Stay!" she commanded. "Ah!" exclaimed Smith, who was noted for his fertility in resource, "you are the first I ever loved."

Pocahontas was just graduated and believed everything she heard, and so they were married.

A young man who imagines that he has been called to preach the gospel may discover later that few people have been called to listen to him.

Among others, the forger appreciates a good name.

Charles Lamb and Hastings. Hastings, which is to indulge in a pageant of heroes, was an object of particular aversion to Charles Lamb.

"I love town or country," he wrote, "but this detestable Cinque Port is neither. If it were what it was in its primitive shape, and what it ought to have remained, a fair, honest fishing town and no more, it were something—with a few straggling fishermen's huts scattered about, artless as its cliffs, and with their materials fished from them—it were something. I could abide to dwell with Meshech; to associate with fisher swains and smugglers. There are, or I dream there are, many of this latter occupation here. Their faces become the place. I like the smuggler. He is the only honest thief. He robs nothing but the revenue, an abstraction I never greatly cared about."—London Chronicle.

Sure Clue. "Doctor, is your patient sure you can cure him by your new method?"

"How did you know my patient was not a woman?"

"I heard that you were going to try the silence cure."

Practically So. "Eddie, what's the matter? Fall?"

"No. I tried to hang some pictures and staid some dictionaries on a table and they slipped from under me."

"Words failed you, I suppose." Judge.

Their First Breakfast

It's a wise bride that doesn't attempt too much for that breakfast.

She can escape cooking in a hot kitchen, avoid rich, greasy foods, and have a good breakfast just the same, by serving

Post Toasties

Toasties are choicest bits of Indian Corn perfectly cooked, delicately flavoured, rolled paper-thin and toasted to a crisp, appetizing brown.

This food comes in tightly sealed packages, ready for instant serving with cream and sugar—also delicious with fresh berries.

Light, wholesome nutritious and temptingly good for the "first breakfast" and the countless meals that will follow—

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

LIC LEDGER

Editor and Publisher.
No. 40. OFFICE—PUBLIC LEDGER BUILDING,
MAYSVILLE, KY.
Subscription—$1.00
Single Copies—10 Cts.
DELIVERED BY CARRIER.
Payable to Collector at end of Month.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

Congressmen.

First District—Edwin Parley, Paducah.
Second District—Alvin H. Clark, Hopkinsville.
Third District—J. Frank Taylor, Glasgow.
Fourth District—W. Sherman Ball, Hardinsburg, Z. T. Proctor, Leitchfield; Lindsay Morrison, West Point.
Fifth District—Roy Wilhoit, Louisville.
Sixth District—Lucien Beckner, Winchester; L. L. Bristow, Georgetown.
Seventh District—James P. Spillman, Harrodsburg.
Eighth District—H. Glenn Ireland, Olive Hill.
Ninth District—Congressman John W. Langley, Pikeville.
Eleventh District—Congressman Caleb Powers, Barbourville; State Senator J. F. Bosworth, Middlesboro.

U. S. Senators.

(Long Term)

Col. Richard P. Ernst, Covington.
A. E. Willson, Louisville.

(Short Term)

Latt P. McLaughlin, Madisonville.
W. Marshall Bullitt, Louisville.

ARY.

The Youth's Instructor gives the following origin of the word salary: Many years ago salt was so hard to obtain, but so much desired, that Roman soldiers were paid part of their wages in salt. Now, the Latin word for salt is sal, and from that came the word salarium, meaning salt money. Finally the soldiers were paid in money but the term salarium was still used to designate these wages. From this old Latin word comes our English word "salary". That is why it is said of a worthless fellow that "he is not worth his salt."

GETTING RID OF TOIL.

We all know something of labor-saving machinery in a vague way, but we are not likely to have any idea of the ceaseless, scientific, wide-reaching improvement that goes on in these devices. Magnet cranes that will pick up and carry five tons of loose scrap iron; one-man coil-hauling bridges that will unload 500 tons of coal in an hour, so that you can see the ship rise in the water; lathe in which 10 tools cut into two pieces of steel at one time and one man runs two such machines—these are only 3 of the new weapons we are now using to conquer the world of things. What are we going to do with it?—Collier's.

President George S. Dearborn of the American Hawaiian Steamship Company told the Senate Committee on Inter-oceanic Canals that a canal without a toll means the free-hand, catch-as-catch-can against all comers, a larger area of territory served, a greater volume of business and more American ships, inasmuch as the Panama Canal gives the first great opportunity for the development of an American merchant marine of the right type of ships and the type qualified to engage in a foreign trade if the opportunity is ever offered.

FOOLISH PHILOSOPHY

Rust kills rest.
Persistence is a jewel.
A difficulty is a friend.
Sharp men seldom cut ice long.
A stingy man giveth himself away.
A long courtship makes a short suitor.
A wayward boy is father to the wayside man.
He is a wise motorist who wears good walking shoes.
Slow freights should not attempt express schedules.
Poverty of thought is worse than poverty of pocket.—Bohemian.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE.

Progress.

What is it that the children cry for?
What is it that the youths all die for?
What is it that the old do sigh for?
THE TANGO.

Old man Marzeloff sighed.
"Strap up my books and pack my lunch, Marpeena," he said. "I have made up my mind. Old as I am, I am going to school. I refuse to let the young people get ahead of me—I will fight to the last ditch—fight to the last ditch. When I look back into the dense ignorance through which I have been pushing my way a feeling of hopelessness overcomes me. But others of my age have managed, with the aid of books and tutors, to keep abreast of the age, so why can't I? This is an age of progress, Marpeena, and, old as I am, I refuse to say die. So pack my books and strap up my lunch!"
"My brave old man!" quavered Marpeena worshipfully. "Your pack is strapped and your books are lunched—go, and prosper. And maybe, maybe, Zitherham, when you have learned much you will be able to teach me a little here at home. For I too am progressive at heart."
"Marpeena, I promise!"
They kissed affectionately and he tottered forth bravely, his books slung over his bent shoulder, his lunch under his arm. Birds were singing, spring was in the air as Zitherham Marzeloff, bearing his well-thumbed books of instruction wended his weary way to the Modern Dance Studios to take his first one-step lesson.—Louisville Times.

There is a lot of luck and mighty little sense.

Our Colored Citizens.

A FEAST IN THE WILDERNESS.

The citizens of Maysville are soon to have the pleasure of attending an unique entertainment at the Scott M. R. Church, East Fifth street, beginning Monday July 20th, 1914.

It will be no ordinary affair but will be a literary and gastronomic entertainment worth while. Each evening a literary or musical program will be rendered. The lecture room will be decorated as a forest, lace curtains will be as a forest. Refreshments will be served by the ladies each evening and day. Booths will also adorn the affair. All the products of the race; crocheting, fine made dresses, paint lugs of all kinds, the best made garment for woman's wear, the best cooking; historical pictures of the race, etc., will be on exhibition and the books and periodicals and books published by the race will be exhibited as well as the curiosities to be found anywhere. We request all our friends to lend us articles, pictures, etc., for exhibition as they will be returned safely. Get ready for this entertainment.

Prizes as follows will be offered:
The person selling largest number of adult tickets, over 10—$1.00
The person selling largest number season tickets, children over 10—50c.
Best made garment—$1.00.
Best loaf salt rising bread—50c.
Best dozen light rolls—50c.
Best dozen beat biscuits—50c.
Best dozen soda or baking powder biscuits—50c.
Finest crocheting—50c.
Finest pie or any kind—50c.
Finest loaf light bread made by woman under 21 years of age—$1.00.
Terms—All contestants, whose prize is $1.00 or more—25c.
Others—15c.
Admission, Season Ticket—25c.
Children, under 12 years—15c.
General admission each evening, adult 25c; children, 10c.
No tickets sold after the 20th of July.
Tickets now on sale. We wish our white friends to help by purchasing a ticket. If you do not intend to attend give the ticket to someone besides the seller so we can keep tag. Everybody is welcomed and will be so entertained as to be pleased for them.
REV. L. M. HAGOOD, Chairman.
MRS. HATTIE WILLIAMS, Sec.
Get tickets now.

ORATORIO ARTISTS SCHEDULED FOR LOCAL CONCERT

Music Lovers Have Rare Treat In Store—Company Is Widely Known.

ALL STAR VOCALISTS.

Each Artist Has Appeared Many Times In Nation's Great Cities.

In a program of high grade music equal to the demands of a discriminating public the Oratorio Artists will appear here this summer on the fourth day of the Redpath Chautauqua.

Included in this select company of singers are:
George Carre, tenor.
Elsie Baker, contralto.
Edna Dunham, soprano.
Frederick Wheeler, basso.
Blanche Barbot, pianist.

On the concert stage the Oratorio Artists are widely known. They have frequently sung for the finest talking machine records, and their music is in great demand.

As a tenor George Carre is all that could be desired. His success in appearances as soloist with some of the nation's greatest orchestras assures local people something unusually good in his range.

Miss Elsie Baker, contralto, began a promising career in the church choir of her native city, Philadelphia. She then went to New York, where her rich voice at once attracted wide attention. The upper range of her voice has the sweetness of the mezzo soprano, and she sings a wide number of roles and music of every known school.

Miss Edna Dunham, the soprano with the Oratorio Artists, is a charming young woman whose place in the musical world has been meteoric. Critics have been loud in their praise of her delightful voice. She has a charming personality and a delightful stage presence and is fitted intellectually to all the demands made upon the successful concert artist of the twentieth century.

Mr. Wheeler, basso with this company, in recent months has appeared many times as soloist with the St. Paul Symphony Orchestra. He has been prominently identified with concert and oratorio work in this country for a number of years. He has appeared many times with the New York Oratorio Society and has toured with Victor Herbert and his orchestra.

As a pianist Miss Blanche Barbot is worthy of much praise. Her skill as an instrumentalist is quite valuable in the work of the Oratorio Artists. She puts her whole soul into the work, and her accompaniments alone are well worth going far to hear.

Lovers of the best music have a treat stored in the appearance here of the Oratorio Artists. They will give a full program of the best music.

Having Decided to Retire From Business, I Offer My Stock at Reduced Prices

BOTTLED IN BOND WHISKIES.
Old Taylor, full quart.....$.95
Belle of Nelson, full quart..... .90
Lancaster, full quart..... .85
Mellwood, full quart..... .83
Old Sam White, full quart..... .79
Old 66, full quart, 8 years old..... .87
Sam Clay, full quart..... .83
Old Time, full quart..... .84
Queen of Nelson, full quart..... .87
Van Hook, full quart..... .94

NOT BOTTLED.
Duffy's Malt Whisky, per bottle..... .80
3 Star Hennessy Brand per bot. $1.00
Rock-Bye, per quart..... .75

WINES.
Port, per bottle..... .35
Sherry, per bottle..... .40
Claret, per bottle..... .40
Puritan Belle, per bottle..... .50
Munroe Extra Dry, per pint..... 1.90
Cooks Imperial, per pint..... .85

WHISKIES IN THE WOOD.
$4.00 Whisky, 8 yrs. old, per gal.....$3.50
$3.00 Whisky, 4 yrs. old, per gal..... 2.90
$4.00 Brandies, per gallon..... 3.50
$3.00 Brandies, per gallon..... 2.50
Mail orders promptly shipped.

Geo. M. Diener
208 Market St. Maysville, Ky.

Dr. P. G. SMOOT
...General...
Practitioner
Second Floor Masonic Temple,
Third and Market Streets,
Maysville, Ky.
Special Attention to Diseases of the Eye, Ear, Nose, Throat.
Residence, 124 E. Third St. Telephone
Office 51, Residence 1. Office hours, 10 to 12
a. m.; 2 to 4 p. m.; 7 to 9 p. m. Sundays by appointment only.

JOHN W. PORTER
FUNERAL DIRECTOR.

17 West Second St. MAYSVILLE, KY.

A competition for cheapness and not excellence of workmanship is the most frequent cause of the rapid decay and entire destruction of the teeth.

G. M. WILLIAMS, DENTIST.
First National Bank Building.
Phones: 16—Office 678—W.
1—Office 385.

Dr. TAULBEE
SURGEON
Special Attention Eye, Ear,
Nose and Throat.
Suite 14
First National Bank Building.

Leaves. Arrive.
Maysville. Maysville.
10:30 a. m. 12:30 p. m.
1:15 p. m. 2:30 p. m.
3:15 p. m. 4:30 p. m.
5:15 p. m. 6:30 p. m.
Daily except Sundays.
H. S. ELLIS, Agent.

Chesapeake & Ohio
Railway.
Schedule effective Nov.
30, 1913. Subject to change without notice.
MAYSVILLE, KY.
Maysville.
Westward—
6:30 a. m., 8:47 a. m.,
3:15 p. m., daily.
6:30 a. m., 8:15 a. m.,
8 p. m., week-days.
5:00 p. m., daily, local.
W. WIKOFF, Agent.

The New York Store CUT-PRICE SALE

Starts Saturday With Ten Red Hot Specials

Special No. 1—Ladies $1 and $1.50 Dresses 69c.
Special No. 2—$1 and $1.50 Dress skirts 85c.
Special No. 3—$1 Sample Waist 50c.
Special No. 4—25c and 50c Boy's Waist 15c.
Special No. 5—$1 and $1.50 Muslin Underskirts 69c.
Special No. 6—Best Gingham Underskirts 39c.
Special No. 7—50c Muslin Underskirts 35c.
Special No. 8—$1 and $1.50 Children's White Dresses 50c.
Special No. 9—Children's 50c White Dresses 25c.
Special No. 10—50c Corset Covers and Drawers 25c.

SPECIAL!

10 per cent. extra discount on any goods not advertised as special.

NEW YORK STORE S. STRAUSS, Proprietor
PHONE 571

CAMPERS!

This Is For You!!

Cots, Camp Chairs, Swings, Canvas Lounging Chairs, Hammock Swings and the Telescope Cot Bed that fills a long felt demand for a real comfortable bed that is portable. : : : :

McILVAIN, HUMPHREYS & KNOX,

Funeral Directors and Embalmers.
Furniture Dealers.

207 Sutton Street. Phone 250. Maysville, Ky.

L. LANGEFELS

Modern Plumbing, Steam and Hot Water Heating!

High quality of Gas Work a Specialty. Handicraft the best of material. Dealer in Brass Valves and Fittings, Gas Stoves and Ranges, All Sizes of Sewer Pipe.

Maysville, Ky.

CLEAN UP! PAINT UP!

FOR GOOD PAINT GO TO THE RYDER PAINT STORE

Washburn's Enamel House Paint
"The Most Reliable"

We Are the Leaders in PAINTS, WALL PAPER AND GLASS

Saturday---a Great Bargain Day

It is seldom that we are so fortunate as to secure such display of fashionable footwear at prices so extremely low.

OXFORDS and PUMPS

that will appeal to the most particular dresser. Read your profits in the following prices—just a few of the many bargains—and reap your benefits in this, the greatest of all value-giving organizations.

Ladies, here is an ideal shoe for summer wear. The new Baby Doll Pump in white canvas. Genuine hand turn soles. A $2 value. Special.....$1.24

A new line of ladies' latest styles. Colonial Pumps, Two Straps and Oxfords. $3 values. Special

$1.99

Misses' and Children's Patent Baby Doll Pumps. Sizes 8 to 11.....$1.24
Misses' sizes 11½ to 2.....$1.24

Children's Barefoot Sandals, sizes 6 to 12.....49c

Men's Gun Metal and Elk Shoes. Special at.....$1.49

Boys' Elk Scout Shoes—will stand rough wear. Special.....$1.24

Boys' and Youths' Box Calf Shoes. All sizes to 5½. A remarkable value. Special 99c

Men's 75c Tennis Oxfords in White and Black. Special.....49c

DAN COHEN INC

$15 FOR THIS GENUINE Victor-Victrola

PAY CASH FOR YOUR RECORDS and $1 per week on the Victrola and we will place this machine in your home. It has concealed sounding board, modifying doors, tapering tone arm and exhibition sound box.

NEW LINE OF VICTROLAS

$15, $25, 40, $50, $75, $100, $200

MURPHY'S Jewelry Store.

NOTICE!

On account of the illness of our Mr. James M. Rains we desire to wind up the business of Rains Bros. and will thank all who owe the firm to call and settle. We offer 12,000 Cotton Grain Sacks FOR SALE in any quantity FOR CASH.

RAINS BROS. PHONE 191

DEERING BINDER TWINE

The smoothest and best twine on the market.

For Sale By

J. C. EVERETT & CO.

Every Bite Brings Delight

If the Pastry and Bread is made from

GOLD MEDAL FLOUR

Your Grocer Can Supply You.

Eventually

Gold Medal Flour

Why Not Now?

M. C. RUSSELL CO., Distributors.

COUGHLIN & CO.

Livery, Feed and Sales Stable

Undertakers, Embalmers, Automobiles for Hire.
Phone 31.

Fresh Meats

W. A. Wood & Bro.

Market Street. MAYSVILLE, KY.

All kinds of Fresh Meats. Cash paid for butchers' stock, hides and tallow

MAX MIDDLEMAN TRANSFER CO.

Transfer and General Hauling. We make a specialty of large contracts. Office and barn 180 East Second street. Phones 145 and 228.

CORN BEANS

We have a good supply of CUT SHORT, LAZY WIFE and HORTICULTURAL. All good ones. 15c a pint.

C. P. DIETERICH & BRO.

PHONES 151 and 152.

Graduation

Wedding Presents!

Our stock consists of the most elaborate assortment of exquisite articles. Your inspection is solicited. : : : :

CHAS. W. TRAXEL & CO

Every pretty girl has a right to be taught to swim at least once a year.

$1.00 muslin under skirts 69c. New York Store.

WHEAT FIELD ABLAZE.

Ewing, Ky.—Fire in T. P. Bell's wheat field at Nepton burned about five acres of that cereal in the shock. Citizens of Nepton fought the fire. W. W. Bell was overcome by heat and is in a serious condition.

15 CENTS EACH FOR EGGS IN MAZATLAN.

San Diego, Cal.—Eggs are selling in Mazatlan at 15 cents apiece, milk at $1 a quart, cakes at 8 cents and tortillas at 60 cents a dozen, according to J. E. Page, marine superintendent of the Southern Pacific railroad, who has arrived here from the Sinaloa port.

44,000,000 RED CROSS SEALS SOLD

New York State Leading With 10,000,000—10 Per Cent Gain Over 1912.

More than 44,000,000 Red Cross Christmas Seals were sold last December, according to a report issued by the National Association for Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, and the American Red Cross. In this way $440,000 is netted for anti-tuberculosis work in various parts of the United States.

The sale is a gain of 4,000,000 seals over 1912, or 10 per cent. It is hoped that this year the 50,000,000 mark will be reached. The seal design for 1914 has been selected and orders for the printing of 100,000,000 seals have been placed. Plans for the organization of a larger sale this year than ever before have been perfected.

New York State lead the country last year with a sale of over 10,500,000 seals or one for each man, woman and child in the State. Of this number more than 6,825,000 were sold outside of New York City by the State Charities Aid Association. Pennsylvania's sale of 2,800,000, Wisconsin fourth 3,125,000 seals. Ohio came next with 2,500,000, Hawaii sold the most seals sale of 2,800,000, Wisconsin fourth with 2,700,000 and Illinois fifth with per capita, the total sale being somewhat over two for each inhabitant. Rhode Island came second with a sale of two per person.

Beginning with a sale of 13,500,000 in 1908, in six seasons the revenue which these little holiday seals have brought to the anti-tuberculosis campaign has more than tripled, an aggregate for the period of over $1,800,000, or 180,000,000 seals.

NEW HARMONY

And Its Centennial—Founded by Rappists Who Left Wonderful Impress On Beautiful Country.

(By Dr. A. G. Browning.)

To the close student of history alone, or one having opportunity of personal observation, can the phenomenal centennial just closed at New Harmony, Indiana, have real significance or be suggestive of facts having historical interest and values, though vouched and conducted by the best in brain and position, our country over.

Ex-President Taft, one of many distinguished orators upon the great occasion, set the authentic seal upon the wondrous historic statements when, as introductory he said: "No other town in all our land, with but one hundred years of history, can claim such close relations to so many movements of present sociological and political interest. It was the seat of two experiments in specialties of very different types. It enlisted in the latter a brilliant set of social and educational reforms. In their number were skilled students of nature who made New Harmony, for a time, an important center of scientific investigation and publication for the country. In New Harmony were established the first industrial schools, the first kindergartens in the United States, and from there came leaders in the movement for common school education, for emancipation of women, and the abolition of slavery. Their activity, influence and ability in the struggle that followed, entitled New Harmony to first place in the story of achievement in these great reforms."

I claim it among the best of my fortunes to know the ancient town, to be familiar with its amazing history, acquired by near two years residence, the benefits of association and the opportunities for local study. My sister was the wife of Dr. Francis Asbury Mott, well remembered there, with whom I passed my first year as medical student. I write of New Harmony as I knew it over half a century ago—as I there learned to know of it, store laying of the cornerstone!

I can only briefly summarize; many pages could give only outlines, and feebly; a volume could alone detail the facts, marvelous to the verge of romance.

George Rapp, of Germany, was the original founder of Harmonie, coming to be New Harmony with the passing of events. It is history that he was a man of force, character, strong convictions, little education, some meanness. A God-fearing man, he was yet a dissembler from the prevailing religion of his time and place, he, and numerous followers, not accepting the married estate—practicing celibacy, and his governing idea being to establish a community with this the vital principle. This developed opposition, ultimate persecution, leading to emigration to free America, there to enlarge upon his cherished propaganda. He founded his community upon this basis, in Pennsylvania in 1803. After about ten years of this, having accumulated money, they purchased 20,000 acres of land in southern Indiana to which New Harmony is now central. Thus began the ancient town, upon these principles based and controlled wholly by the Rappists.

God and nature were generous beyond compare to the chosen site. To hand for the sturdy adventures were the beautiful river and its undulating banks; the enchanting island and its bewitching foliage; the endless acres of virgin soil, seemingly in hunger for the awakening touch; the bewildering forests awaying in graceful welcome—"twas a dream! And 'tis in evidence today that the merry Rappists were not idle. As if by magic, within ten short years came handsome streets, brick, stone and frame buildings—dwellings, factories, shops, church; the material for all home-made; the stone quarried from the hills; lumber and logs from the forests; lime from crushed mussel shells; miles of fencing, endless hinges, latches, doors, gates, with never a nail—only wooden pegs. Their canoes were dug out of logs. All this was told me, time and again, till "familiar as a household word." And with all this primitive condition, are, or the semblance of it was not lost or forgotten, as modesty evidenced in the gabled roofs, vine-clad hills, beautiful orchards, and stately church, in shape of cross, supported by handsome pillars of natural wood, the doorway decorated by a golden rose, and a fitting inscription carved upon a column of stone.

The most wonderful to me of all, was the labyrinth, still intact, as I explored it. 'Tis a famous horticultural design, constructed of flowing shrubs and vines enclosing a hermitage—a summer house, with rough exterior, but within ornamental and beautifully furnished. The walks about were a perfect maze.

With the following I was in frequent touch, and—'twas touching! At one side of town, enclosed by a brick wall, about six feet high, capped with granite, was the Rappists' cemetery, embracing four or five acres, in which slept hundreds of their dead. It would never present to any one as a burial place, as there were no mounds, stones or monuments to mark a grave of any one—naught but shrubs and flowers about the last resting place. The same equality was preserved in death that characterized their phenomenal lives. When the town was sold, this acreage was reserved, as sacred to the dead. And the locusts were replaced with ever-living cedar and pine, that the Rappists' may live ever, in the coming memories. Yes, it was touching!

(To be Continued.)

Children's 50c white dresses 25c—New York Store.

STOPS ITCHING

Child Cured by Saxo Salve

Patterson, N. Y.—"My children had a skin disease which the doctor called itch or eczema. He gave them medicines and ointments for it with very little benefit, but Saxo Salve has cured them and stopped the itching. Sufferers from itching eczema should use it."

Mrs. L. K. Bakken, Patterson, N. Y.

If we can't cure your skin trouble with our Saxo Salve and Saxo Soap we will buy back the empty tube.

John C. Pecor, Druggist, Maysville, Ky.

Wash waists and lace blouses greatly under price at Hunt's. See ad.

The National Administration was indorsed by the Georgia Legislature, which convened for a fifty days' session.

The Deposit and People's Banks of Paris, Ky., have been merged under the name of Deposit & People's Bank with a capitalization of $150,000.

Eat Traxel's Bread

Time To List Your Farms

Thos. L. Ewan & Co.

REAL ESTATE AND LOAN AGENTS

FARMERS and HOMEOWNERS BANK MAYSVILLE, KY.

$1.00 gowns 50c—New York Store.

The committee assignments of Senator Camden will be made by Senator Kern, Democratic leader.

President Wilson extended executive clemency to four men convicted in the dynamite conspiracy. Eighteen others must begin serving their prison terms.

WASHINGTON THEATER.

CARLYLE BLACKWELL AND NEVA GERBER IN

"THE DETECTIVE'S SISTER" Two Part Kaleid Drama.

ELINOR RAYE, ROY HOWARD AND HARRY HOFFMAN IN

"THE RACE FOR A MINE" Kaleid Drama

"AS IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN" Biograph Drama.

ADMISSION 5c

EDWIN MATTHEWS

DENTIST.

Suite 4, First National Bank Building, MAYSVILLE, KY.

Local and Long (Office No. 555, Distance Phone 1, Residence No. 127)

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR CONGRESS

We are authorized to announce Hon. W. J. Fields of Carter County as a candidate for re-election to Congress from the Ninth District, subject to the Democratic Primary to be held on August 1st, 1914. He most respectfully solicits your support.

WHEN TRAVELING

one often needs a refreshing 'nip' and you can't always get it good on the road. Take a bottle of our famous Rye Whisky with you and you will be well protected for the journey—whether it be by land or water. This is the finest Whisky ever distilled and is perfectly pure and wholesome, and is recommended by physicians to their patients.

O. H. P. Thomas & Co.,

120-122 Market Street, MAYSVILLE, . . . KENTUCKY.

Feed Y Chicken

SCHUMAKER SCRATCH F.

will be delighted and you will how fat they get.

M. C. RUS

The annual protest against the use of public automobiles for private trips by Government officials was voiced in the House by Representative Howard, of Georgia.

Jeff McCann, a former and now United States Attorney, was indicted by the grand jury for his assault on a woman.

EUREKA

means we have found it. Just the thing that is necessary in stove line. See our new kitchen COMBINATION COAL & GAS RANGE—always ready, winter or summer, early or late. Made of cast iron—four holes for gas, four holes for coal. U same oven, either coal or gas. Only one fuel connection, occupying no more space than an ordinary range. No higher in price.

GEORGE H. TRAXEL, Corner Third and Limestone Streets.

An A. D. S. Preparation for every ill. We guarantee satisfaction. Try

A. D. S. PEROXIDE CREAM.

JOHN C. PECOR, Druggist

Love's Specials!

STRAWBERRIES ARE NOW COMING. In a few days the HOME GROWN varieties will be on the market. The prospects are for a bountiful supply. Later on RASPBERRIES and other fruits will be coming. During the season my house as Usual Will Be The Headquarters for all the various kinds. As I have my usual arrangements with the best growers in both TENNESSEE and the OHIO VALLEY I shall be in position to meet all the demands and furnish the best fruits grown, on same days as they are picked WHOLESALE and RETAIL. So when you want the best come to me.

My stock of FANCY GROCERIES is at all times full and complete and prices lowest.

The biggest and best stock of Coffees, Teas and Sugar; also full supply of country cured HAMS and BACON of the very best kind. Canned goods in immense quantities. In fact every article the very best usually found in a FIRST CLASS GROCERY. buy all my goods direct from first hands for SPOT CASH and have no fear of successful competition. I buy country cured Hams and Bacon and produce generally for which I pay cash or goods SPOT CASH PRICES.

My usual invitation to country people when in our city make my house headquarters still stands, and don't forget that WHOLESALE as well as RETAIL.

R. B. LOVEL, THE LEADING GROCER, Wholesale and Retail. PHONE 83.

GEM TODAY!

PERFORMANCES START DAILY AT 1 P. M.

Bungalow aprons 39c. N. Y. Store.

JUNE.

A wide-spreading tree,
A shady nook,
A cliff, a fern,
A sparkling brook;
A woodland path,
A mossy dell,
A daisy white,
Or a sweet blue-bell;
A banner of white
O'er the sky unfurl'd—
And I quite forget
This workaday world;
A bird's cheery song,
Its joyous trill,
Beckons and holds me,
With its potent thrill;
And the tasks undone,
Which are mine to do,
Must wait—and wait—
Till the sun is thro';
The soft breezes sigh—
All Nature's in tune—
And my heart re-echoes,
Ay, yeal 'tis June.

—Olive A. Murphy in Times-Star.

GRANDPA SHUMAKER VERY MUCH SURPRISED.

A birthday party was given Wednesday to one of the oldest citizens of the county by his children and grand children. Mr. Louis Shumaker of Johnson being the recipient, and the occasion was his 70th birthday.

The event came as a complete surprise to Mr. Shumaker who was at work in a nearby tobacco field when his children began to arrive early in the morning. Mr. Shumaker was gradually led in on the surprise but it was not until a surprising dinner of the famous old Kentucky style was served by Miss Mary Shumaker, his daughter, did he realize what was being done. The day passed in the true family reunion style and will long be remembered by Mr. Shumaker and his many children and relatives present. Those present besides the immediate home family which is composed of Miss Mary, Louis and Joe Shumaker, were:

Mrs. Charles Shuma and husband and four children of the county; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gallenstein and son

Alice Joyce in "NINA OF THE THEATRE" The First Number of the Alice Joyce Serial Story.

PATHE WEEKLY NO. 39 Of Current Events.

Edward of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Burk and four children of Georgetown, Ky.; and Misses Lena, Margaret and Elizabeth Pepper of Johnson. Mrs. Gallenstein, Mrs. Shuma and Mrs. Burk are daughters of Mr. Shumaker. Rev. John Adlesburge of Carlisle was also present.

$1.25 dresses 69c. New York Store.

NEWSY NOTES FROM THE DOVER NEWS.

What so rare as a rain in June!

Mrs. Ann Beckett, wife of Nace Beckett, colored, died Friday night after a lingering illness of more than a year.

Mrs. Carolao Chevis, wife of Sam Chevis, colored, died Thursday night at her home on Hall street, aged 63 years.

Dr. Edward Sample who at one time ran a drug store in Dover, died at his home in Huntington, W. Va., a week ago Saturday, and was buried at Vanceburg the following Tuesday. He is survived by his wife and two children.

The chances for a bumper crop of tobacco in this county and Bracken have gone glimmering. By the time the wire worms and the drought get through with what has been set the acreage will be reduced to half crop and the quality of what is left will depend on the future rains.

Messrs. Ray H. Baiman, Ralph Creek Baum and Frank Mitchell left Saturday for a week's fishing on the Licking River. Monday morning they telephoned for Fred Brown to come after them quick as sent. We do not know what caused the sudden desire to cut short their week's sport, unless it happened that the drought had dried up the stream and the fish had gone to the river for a drink.

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery Pickett and two daughters, Catherine and Eliza Beth, of Maywood, near Chicago, Ill., arrived Saturday for a short visit to Mrs. Pickett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Scott Osborne. They motored through in Mr. Pickett's machine. Mr. and Mrs. Pickett left for their home Wednesday while the Messrs Pickett remained for a more extended visit with their grandparents.

If It's to Be Printed Bring It to Us

Sergeant, Ky.—James Sturgill, aged 16, five feet and eleven inches tall, weighs 160 pounds and is still growing.

MORROW FOR ERNST

Eloquent Kentuckian Declares All Republicans Should Rally to the Covington Statesman.

An announcement of significance in political circles in Kentucky was made by Edwin P. Morrow, United States district attorney at Covington and one of the most eloquent orators in the Blue Grass State. Mr. Morrow says that he will enthusiastically support the candidacy of Hon. Richard P. Ernst for the Republican nomination for United States Senator from Kentucky. Attorney Morrow, who is very popular throughout the State said: "Although his opponent is a man of distinguished ability and world, if elected, reflect credit upon his State, yet I am for Hon. Richard P. Ernst of Covington for United States Senator. In my opinion Mr. Ernst is the most available and strong candidate the Republicans of Kentucky could nominate. He can unite all the elements in the party and will be particularly successful in bringing back into line the Progressives throughout the State. He has always been loyal to his party, and has devoted his time and energy toward building it up and bringing success to the Republicans in Kentucky. If nominated and elected, I am satisfied that he will treat with fairness and impartiality all Republicans in the State; no matter what may have heretofore been their political alignment. He will unquestionably make an active, vigorous and energetic campaign and will effect an organization which will bring out the entire voting strength of the Republican party. His record, both public and private, is beyond reproach. From my information and observation there is a general demand for his nomination throughout Kentucky—a spontaneous expression of confidence in his ability and his availability as a candidate. If nominated, he will be elected in November, and will represent Kentucky in the Senate with credit to himself and honor to the State."

Beechwood Tonight!

NOTES FROM THE RIPLEY BEE.

Mr. A. H. Shinkle of Louisville, Ky., joined his wife here the first of the week and is a guest at the home of Mrs. Ella McCaughey.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jaynes of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, are guests at the home of his father, Mr. C. O. Jaynes, in Front street.

Next Tuesday, June 30th, the citizens of Ripley will be asked to vote for a bond issue to provide money to erect a new public school building in Ripley.

Miss Mattie Allene Tweed, clerk at the Ripley National Bank is off for a vacation. She will first visit friends in Illinois, and from there will go to Hillsboro, North Dakota.

As a result of the small amount of rain in upper Ohio Valley for the past five weeks, navigation has been suspended between Gallipolis and Pittsburgh. Crops in this section are burning up as a result of the drought, vegetables are scarce and grocers have to get supplies from the Cincinnati market.

Mr. Carl Miller of Lebanon, son of August Miller of Ripley, was married to Miss Lida Phiberty, daughter of James Phiberty of Mt. Washington, June 13th.

Miss Mary Bell Shetwell returned to Columbus, Ohio, last week, where she will take the Pasteur treatment. While there on a visit some two weeks ago, she played with a dog at the home of Mr. O. Hoffmann, and which afterwards went mad and bit Mr. Hoffmann. Miss Shetwell had a scratch on her hand and as a precaution against infection, she went back to receive the treatment.

The Library Trustees have received the plans for the new Public Library and will likely adopt them at a meeting to be held today.

APPLE CROP

Generally Above Average and the Peaches Promise Fairly Well.

Washington.—Apples this year promise a heavy yield in Maryland and North Carolina, the finest crop in the history of Colorado, an unusual crop in Michigan, good crops in Virginia and Georgia and South Carolina and prospects in other States generally good or above the average according to reports to the Department of Agriculture announced.

Insect pests killed many old orchards in New England and damage from tent

"THE SILENT WITNESS" Drama in Two Parts

"NEARLY A BURGLAR'S BRIDE" A Good Comedy—This One Will Make You Laugh.

Come Out and Enjoy Yourself.

MAYSVILLE ASSEMBLY CLUB DANCE

IN PAVILION TONIGHT.

OPEN AIR CONCERT 7:30 to 9:00

O'Clock by

PROF. R. J. BULLETT'S ORCHESTRA.

COOL AND KOZY.

enterpillars was common from Maine to New York. Some injury was suffered in Indiana and Illinois from a late freeze, and insect injuries are reported, particularly in Indiana, Illinois and Missouri.

The commercial apple crop was considerably less in 1913 than in the preceding year, shipments by rail and water indicating it was 64 per cent. of the 1912 season. This movement, which constitutes one fourth or one fifth of the total crop, amounted to 28,653,000 bushels of which New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey shipped 12,023,000 bushels and Washington, Oregon and California 4,144,000 bushels.

$1.00 Shirt waists 50c—N. Y.

Some men are Republicans and others are not at heart, and others are elected to office.

MIDNIGHT BASEBALL GAME ALASKA.

Fairbanks, Alaska.—More than a thousand persons attended a baseball game played here two local teams. The game opening event of the festival Midnight Sun, features of which a camel parade, and general singing.

THE BUSINESS OF TODAY are fully aware of the value of good dress business asset. They regard well made, up fitting attire as much of an essential as the tractive qualities of a well kept store or car. The only question is who is the tailor who makes them the most satisfactory garments. There can be no question of doubt if you order with us. Remember this is the store in this section where you can buy the finest men's and women's clothes. See the brownies we are showing for $15 to $25, they are real. Remember we repair all our dry work free of charge in a workmanlike manner.

C. F. McNAMARA,

614 West Front Street Maysville, Ky.

NOTICE TO CITY TAXPAYERS

Receipts for the 1914 City Taxes will be in my hands for collection on and after July 1st.

H.C. CURRAN, City Treasurer

Office in The Leda Building

AT HALF PRICE

Here is an opportunity to get an up-to-date morning newspaper with full Associated Press service at half price. The subscription rates to The Cincinnati Commercial Tribune have been reduced and are now as follows:

MAIL.	SUBSCRIPTION RATES.	MAIL.
	Payable in Advance.
DAILY and SUNDAY, one year . . .	$5.00
DA LY and SUNDAY, six months . .	2 50
DAILY and SUNDAY, one week . . .	10
DAILY, omitting Sunday, one year . .	3 00
DAILY, omitting Sunday, six months .	1 50
DAILY, omitting Sunday, one week . .	06
SUNDAY, only, one year	2.00

Send your money order or check to The Commercial Tribune Publishing Company, Cincinnati, O.

Miss Mary Frank Hughes has returned after a pleasant visit with Misses Mildred and Idella Cleveland of Dover.

Mrs. Frank Bierley and children have returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. William McMillen of Clark street, Cincinnati.

Attorney James M. Collins and Mr. M. A. Swift returned last evening from Cincinnati where they attended the convention of Knights of St. John.

Miss Hazel Slough of Covington is expected here on next Saturday to spend her vacation with her grandmother, Mrs. Roe Carr on East Second St.

Misses Hettie Prazze and Ethel Egbert and Mr. Ward McAllister of Lexington will be in this city to attend the dance at Beechwood Park tonight.

Miss Louise McPherson of Sciotoville will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hopper of East Third street today and tomorrow. Miss McPherson will attend the Assembly dance at Beechwood Park tonight.

Mr. W. L. Wallingford and bride, nee Miss Gilg, of Mayslick, have returned from their bridal tour of several weeks to the North and East. They wish to announce to their many friends that they will be at home after July 1st at 302 Canal street.

WANTED CLOTHES
$10.00 TO $35.

H. Frank & Co.
Maysville's Foremost Clothiers.

PERSONAL
Thomas Downing is visiting relatives at Washington.

M. H. Davis of Maysville was here yesterday.

Mr. John Walsh returned yesterday on a trip to Cincinnati.

Mr. Larry Langefels was a business visitor in Cincinnati yesterday.

Mr. William Groppenbacher was a visitor in Cincinnati yesterday.

Mr. Pickett Hunter has returned from Pittsburgh where he has been attending school.

Mrs. Lucy Robertson left yesterday for Atlantic City where she will spend the summer.

Mrs. A. S. Best of Millersburg has been visiting Dr. and Mrs. Alex Hunter in Washington.

Misses Artie Benson and Mattie Irue are attending the Epworth League conference of the M. E. Church South, Paris.

Miss Matilda James of Paris is the guest of Miss Evelyn Smith of East Second street for the dance tonight at Beechwood.

Mrs. Walter Cady and family arrived Wednesday for a visit with her mother, Mrs. B. F. Williams, of Commerce street.

Mrs. Andrew Schmitt after a week's visit with her son Smith on East Sixth street returned to her home in Covington, yesterday.

Mr. Edward S. Morford, wife and family of Covington are guests of Mr. Morford's sister, Mrs. Harry Richardson on East Second street.

Mr. Forrest Wood of Mt. Sterling will be the guest of Mrs. Anna Reed and Mr. Thomas L. Ewan of East Fourth street for the dance tonight.

Thomas M. Russell and Dr. Cox left this morning for Lexington in Mr. Russell's auto. They will be here tonight or tomorrow.

Lacy Gale of Cincinnati will call today to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Barbour and family for the dance at Beechwood tonight.

George Brown and Mr. Robert of Jenkins, Ky., will be the guests of Mr. H. C. Sharp and family for the assembly dance at Beechwood.

P. Anderson and sister, Miss Margaret, are spending the week at the Beach Hotel, Chicago, attending a show given by the South Country Club.

PROGRAM
For Children's Day Service at Third Street M. E. Church Sunday at 7:30 P. M.

Processional—"On for the King"—School.
Responsive Reading by Superintendent and School.
Invocation.
Chorus—"All the World is Singing"—The Leaders.
Recitation—"Welcome"—Frances Redden.
Song—"The Old Faith"—By the Little Folks.
Recitation—"A Prayer for Baby"—Julia Breeze.
A Lullaby—"Baby Girl"—Edith Lital.
Recitation—"Children's Day"—Juanita Richardson.
Recitation—"George Redden."
Duet—"God Made the Flowers"—May and Ruth Muse.
Recitation—"The Worth of a Man"—Robert Arthur.
Song—"Happy June is Here"—Frances Redden.
Recitation—"Little Hands, Little Feet"—Edith Lital.
Recitation—"Pulling Up Weeds"—Ruth Muse.
Song—"Listen Sweet Bells"—Juanita Richardson.
Recitation—"Our Aim"—Edith Reed.
Song—"God's World of Beauty"—Frances Snapp.
Recitation—"June"—May Muse.
Song—"Word of the Lord"—By the Little Folks.
Chorus—"Hail to the Spring Time"—The Leaders.
A Threefold Education—"Howell Richardson."
Duet—"Helen Nanna and Lillian Muse."
The Drowning Singer—"Miss Edna Sidwell."
Solo—"Miss Lillian Muse."
Imagery of the Bible—"Franklin Slye."
Chorus—"Deep in the Woodlands"—The Leaders.
The Seed and the Harvest—"Seven Young Ladies."
Children's Day and Education—"Rev. J. M. Lital."
Offering for Education.
Song Drill by Twenty Girls.
Chorus—"Hosanna"—The Leaders.
Remediation.
The five choruses sung by the Leaders are all adapted from music by Wagner and are very beautiful selections. Miss Margaret Yazell will be the accompanist and the Misses Porter the directors.

PAIGE
Model Chevrolet "35"—Electric lighting and starting—$1275
Model Buick "25"—Electric lighting and starting—$975

MAYBE it is an old fashioned idea this notion of putting all the value possible into the car itself—and as little as possible into overhead expense—

But it has given the Paige a positively dominant position among cars of medium price—

Ample capital for operating purposes—no bonded indebtedness—no excessive capitalization—no heavy overhead of any kind to be paid for.

Just a full dollar of car value for every dollar of the selling price.

Is it any wonder that the Paige is going to be oversold again this year in spite of increased production?

The Paige-Detroit Motor Car Co., Detroit, Mich.

Central Garage Co.,
Maysville, Ky.

Babies will grow—and while they are growing, you should have them photographed often enough to keep a record of each interesting stage of their childhood.

You will prize the collection of baby's pictures more and more as the years go by.

Brosee
The Photographer in Your Town.

Special

Cold Rolled Ham.
Minced Cooked Ham.
Underwood Devil Ham.
Baked Beans and Tomato Sauce.
Olive Salad.
Onion Salad.
Baked Crab Meat.
Tuna Fish.

J. C. CABLISH & BRO.
Quality Grocers.
Phone 230.

PASTIME TODAY

"LUCILLE LOVE"
The Girl of Mystery Series
Don't Miss This Great Series Picture Comes Every Friday

"ALKALI IKE AND THE SCHOOL BELLE"
Comedy

"MOTHER LOVE"
A BIG REEL FOR 5 CENTS

Report of the condition of the UNION TRUST & SAVINGS CO.
Doing business in the town of Maysville, County of Mason, State of Kentucky, at the close of business on 20th day of June, 1914.

RESOURCES:
Loans and Discounts, $137,639.29
Stocks, Bonds and other Securities, 31,682.28
Due from banks, 51,119.11
Cash on hand, 3,500.00
Total, $223,940.68

LIABILITIES:
Capital Stock paid in, in cash, 50,000.00
Surplus Fund, 10,000.00
Undivided Profits, less expenses and taxes paid, 13,029.67
Time deposits, 206,855.26
Reserve for taxes, 1,330.02
Other liabilities not included under any of above heads, Funds to pay coupons $942.75, Uninvested Trust Funds $2,250.08
Total, $283,910.78

STATE OF KENTUCKY Sec.
County of Mason.
We, C. C. Callahan and N. S. Callahan, President and Secretary of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of our knowledge and belief.

C. C. CALLAHAN, President.
N. S. CALLAHAN, Secretary.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 24th day of June, 1914.
H. C. SHARP, Notary Public.
My commission expires Jan. 11, 1916

Advertised Letters

List of unclaimed letters in the Maysville Postoffice week ending June 25th, 1914:

Allen, Paul
Beach, Charles A.
Blase, Mrs. Fred
Bradley, George
Brown, Miss Maude
Brewer, Jim
Burriss, A. E.
Dachnowski, Alfred P.
Darlington, Mrs. Maggie
Campbell, Miss Goldie
Crump, Jas.
Douthill, Miss Louann
Eagan, Jack
Edmon, Miss Mattie
Feron, Charlie
Jewell, John R.
Kane, Miss Lesslie
Lovett, Mrs. Edgar C.
Mills, Mrs. Annie
Morgan, Miss Dora
Nowlan, Mr. and Mrs.
Owens, Miss Eva
Phillips, Mrs. Ida
Pickett, Miss Pearl
Presley, Miss Claude
Rims, Mrs. Ella
Seerest, Calvin D.
Smith, Mike
Stevens, Karl
Stevens, W. O.
Thompson, Preston
Trent, Collins

One cent due on above letters. Parties calling for same will please say "advertised."

M. E. KEOH, P. M.

59c muslin under skirts 35c. Now York Store.

A cyclone swept Fayette County yesterday doing much damage.

THOS. L. EWAN & CO. REAL ESTATE AGENTS.
Will not move from the Farmers & Traders Bank. The report was erroneous as the firm will remain where it is. Remember if you have business with us we are here.

THOS. L. EWAN & COMPANY,
Farmers & Traders Bank.

SMASH!

Greatest Business Failure Recorded in History of the World

H. B. Claflin Dry Goods Co.
"Goes Democratic"—
Owe $35,000,000

New York, June 25.—The great dry goods house of H. B. Claflin company failed today with liabilities of $35,000,000. The assets are estimated at $10,000,000. Two proceedings, friendly and unfriendly, threw the firm into bankruptcy, and two receivers were named under bonds of $500,000 each. The Claflin company controls or is affiliated with about thirty great retail stores throughout the United States, and it was the insolvency of their parent, held by more than 3,000 banks here and in interior cities, that caused the crash.

The United Dry Goods companies and the Associated Merchants company, though affiliated with the Claflin company, through stock control, were in no way involved in the failure. Their chain of stores, it was stated in the financial district, would remain intact. Hope was expressed also that the Claflin retail enterprises would be saved. Unless blocked by creditors, a reorganization of the failed firm is contemplated, according to a statement issued by John Claflin, the president.

The Claflin Company.
The H. B. Claflin company, receivers for which have been appointed: Has assets estimated at about $14,000,000.

Liabilities are estimated at $35,000,000.

Controls 28 dry goods arms through out the United States.

Between 2,500 and 3,000 banks hold paper of the stores.

Twenty five or thirty of the large discount banks of New York are creditors for large amounts.

BASEBALL RESULTS

GAMES TODAY.

Ohio State League.
Maysville at Lexington.
Fronton at Chillicothe.
Huntington at Charleston.
Paris at Portsmouth.

National League.
St. Louis at Pittsburgh.
Chicago at Cincinnati.
New York at Boston.
Philadelphia at Brooklyn.

American League.
Boston at New York.
Cleveland at St. Louis.
Detroit at Chicago.
Washington at Philadelphia.

YESTERDAY'S GAMES.

Ohio State League.
Lexington-Fonton, rain.
Maysville-Portsmouth, rain.
Chillicothe, 1; Huntington, 3.
Paris, 0; Charleston, 5.

National League.
New York, 6; Boston, 7.
Brooklyn, 7; Philadelphia, 8.
St. Louis, 1; Pittsburgh, 4.
Chicago-Cincinnati, wet grounds.

American League.
Detroit, 2; Chicago, 3.
Cleveland, 6; St. Louis, 3.
Boston, 2; New York, 3.
Philadelphia-Washington, rain.

STANDING OF THE CLUBS.

Ohio State League.
Won Lost P. C.
Chillicothe, 35 22 .614
Lexington, 34 22 .607
Fronton, 32 21 .604
Portsmouth, 31 24 .561
Charleston, 28 30 .483
Huntington, 27 31 .466
Maysville, 21 31 .392
Paris, 17 37 .315

National League.
Won Lost P. C.
New York, 33 21 .611
Cincinnati, 31 27 .531
St. Louis, 32 30 .516
Philadelphia, 27 30 .475
Chicago, 29 30 .492
Pittsburgh, 28 31 .475
Boston, 27 32 .459
Brooklyn, 23 31 .426

American League.
Won Lost P. C.
Philadelphia, 35 21 .620
Detroit, 36 29 .554
Washington, 33 27 .550
St. Louis, 34 28 .548
Boston, 31 31 .500
Chicago, 30 31 .492
New York, 22 35 .386
Cleveland, 22 38 .367

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; unless it is often treated by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for literature free.

P. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

DR. OAKLEY A. HINES' WONDERFUL HYDROPHOBIA CURE.

I wish to take this public method of informing the people that I cure rabid animals. If you have a valuable dog or horse that you think has developed rabies, let me know at once if you care to cure them. I have recently cured many severe cases.

Yours,
OAKLEY HINES, V. S.
Phone 240, Augusta, Ky.

WEATHER REPORT
THUNDER SHOWERS TODAY.
SATURDAY FAIR.

MAYSVILLE PRODUCE MARKET

Following are this morning's quotations on country produce, telephoned at 9 o'clock by the E. L. Manchester Produce Company:

Eggs—loss off, 17c
Butter, 15c
Hens, 12c
Spring chickens weighing 1 1/2 lbs. and over, 30c
Old roosters, 6c
Turkeys, 12c

CINCINNATI MARKETS

Live Stock.
Cincinnati, June 25.—Hog receipts 2,700; market steady. Cattle receipts 800; market quiet; calves slow, $5.00 to 10.00. Sheep receipts 7,000; market steady; lambs steady.

Provisions.
Butter steady, eggs steady; prime firsts, 19c; firsts, 15c to 17c; seconds, 15c; poultry steady; hams, 15c; spring ers, 24c to 32c; turkeys, 11c.

Grain.
Wheat easy, 87c to 88c; corn firm, 70c to 77c; oats firm, 40c to 41c; rye steady, 65c to 68c.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

WANTED.
P. W. WHEELER will move his shoe shop from 223 Market street to 120 West Second street, next door to Pearl Blythe's barber shop. Mr. Wheeler will be glad to see his friends and customers at his new stand.

WANTED—A live young man. Must be honest and temperate. Good position to the right party. Address P. O. Box 589. j21 6t ANTED—Housework, washing, ironing. Hotel work preferred. Maggie Vaughn, East Second street.

FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—My residence, No. 604 E. Second street. Terms reasonable. E. A. Robinson. 22 21 26

FOR SALE—Studebaker 25 horse power auto. Run only 2,500 miles and in good condition as new. Call at this office. A real bargain. 22 6t

FOR SALE—Two seated pony outfit. Used only one season; also runabout, used one season. Apply to Edward Whittington, Market street. 21 6t

FOR SALE—Four room house with city water, gas and electric lights. Lot 40x132 and stable and chicken lots, concrete walks and garden. Possession given in 30 days. Apply 5 doors east of Wood street, Forest avenue. Roy Brown. 22 6t

FOR SALE—Horse, cart and harness. Horse five years old. Apply to Gilbert Tolle, 927 Forest Ave. j9 4t

FOR RENT.

FOR RENT—Flat of 5 rooms after July 1st. Up stairs. Gas and water. Phone Mrs. Chester Hland, Mayslick, Ky.

FOR RENT—Nice furnished rooms with bath. Apply at 214 Limestone street. Mrs. W. L. Carter. 5 1t

POULTRY.

PIGEONS lay dollars where chickens pay cents; small capital needed; small space required; always panned up; ready markets; send for May is one of our Journals; fully explained there; price ten cents. Reliable Squab Journal, Versailles, Mo. just-m

LOST.

LOST—Green eye shade off of bicycle. Please return to Hoeftlich's Store.

LOST—Small white serge overskirt on East Second street. Finder please leave at the Bank of Maysville.

LOST—Peerless bicycle which was taken from yard of W. D. Browning in the East End. Reward if returned to this office. 23 6t LOST—Rhinestone pin, between Mrs. Thos. A. Keith's and Parker's livery stable. Please return to Frank Owens' Hardware store.

LOST—Silver coin purse, containing round-trip ticket to Portsmouth and $2.35 in money, either on street car or between car line and C. & O. depot. Reward if returned to Mabel Crowell.

The Season's Greatest Sale of White and Colored Wash Goods

WE ARE SHOWING THE GREATEST STOCK OF THESE GOODS EVER IN MAYSVILLE AND ARE OFFERING BARGAINS NEVER EQUALED.

The lovely Crepes, Voiles, Batistes, etc., at 12 1/2c, 15c, 19c and 25c, are reduced from 17c, 19c, 25c up to 45c.

To push along the sale we have put all our stock of embroidery, flouncings, embroidered voiles, crepes, etc., in this sale. Many of the handsomest goods are just one half former prices, owing to a very fortunate opportunity to buy from an eastern house in need of money.

You can't afford to miss this sale.

The best line of Laces ever shown in Maysville.

All the latest novelties are shown here first.

July Fashions are here.

ROBERT L. HOEFLICH
211 and 213 MARKET STREET.

$1.00 Middy blouses 39c. N. Y. Store.

Saturday's special at Barkley's—shoes or slipper shoes, 19 cents.

Mrs. Ruby Cartwright and little son Perry, who have been visiting her sister, Mrs. C. L. Rosenham of West Fourth street for several months have returned to Louisville.

SUES FOR INSURANCE.

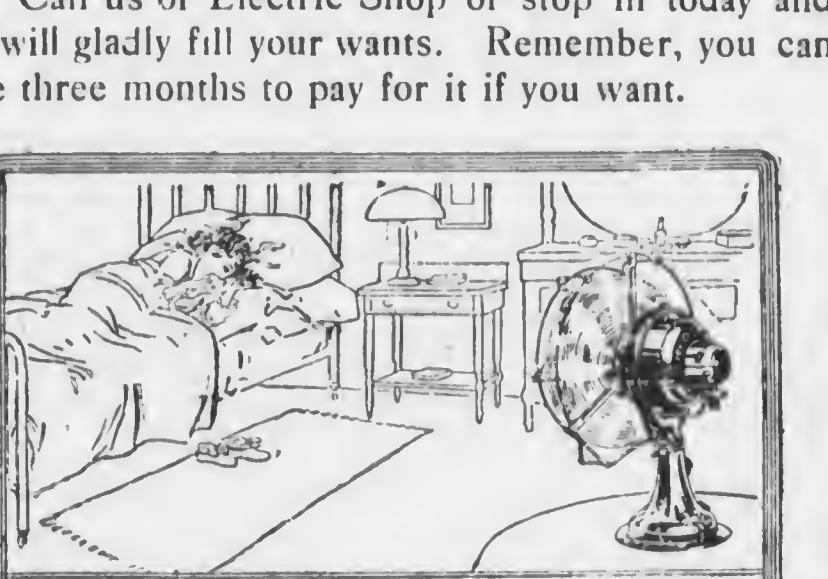

Mrs. Ida May Kendall, of this place, has filed suit against the Western and Southern Life Insurance Company to collect $500 insurance on a policy carried by her husband, the late Edward T. Kendall, who was accidentally shot and killed by Glenn Ellis, a few weeks ago. Stephenson & Mahaffey, attorneys for plaintiff.—Manchester Signal.

Covington, Ky.—Pleasants adorning the backs of carriages and automobiles containing bridal couples have come under the official ban here. An edict was issued by Commissioner of Public Safety Schuler after numerous complaints had been received to which offensive signs were displayed. Throwing of old shoes and rice is not included in Schuler's campaign.

TOO HOT

During these torrid days when everybody says it is too hot what could be a more valuable asset than an Electric Fan? You are not doing your work up to the standard if you are sweltering with heat. Buy a Fan now. You will have three months use out of it. Are you going to deprive yourself of this necessity all that time?

Call us or Electric Shop or stop in today and we will gladly fill your wants. Remember, you can take three months to pay for it if you want.

Cooling Breezes For the Sleeping Hours

With a G-E electric fan in your room, you can be sure of a cooling breeze throughout the warmest night. From the moment of retiring until sun-up once more, the air in your room is always stirring—always alive.

G-E Electric Fans are practical, inexpensive and cost little to operate. We have various sizes and styles, adjustable to any angle or oscillating. Let us show you a style to fit your conditions.

Maysville Gas Co.

We Will Help You Solve the Problem of How to KEEP COOL!

Come in and let us fit you up in one of our Hart Schaffner & Marx Palm Beach Suits. The greatest tropical stuff yet. And while here look at our line of Straw Hats, Shoes, Underwear and Shirts. They are great. If you have any doubt come in and let our merchandise convince you

J. WESLEY LEE,
THE GOOD CLOTHES MAN, Second and Market Streets.